MOSCOW BRANDS GERMAN CLAIMS "ARABIAN FAIRY TALES"

APITAL OF UKRAINE URROUNDED HITLER OMMUNIQUE INSISTS

Adolf Hitler's high command reported today that German troops ng deep into the lower Ukraine had annihilated a Red army force ped southeast of Uman, 125 miles south of Kiev, capturing more 30,000 prisoners and the supreme commander of the Russian Sixth y.

The Soviet high command, officially labeling Hitler's claims of vast sses as "Arabian fairy tales," declared that the 48-day-old struggle cost the Germans more than 1,500,000 men, against 600,000 Soviet s, and termed the blitzkrieg a complete failure.

The Russians said the Germans lost 6,000 tanks, compared to their losses of 5,000; 8,000 cannon, compared to 7,000; and 6,000 planes, pared to 4,000.

Unofficial Nazi reports said Kiev itself, the Ukraine capital, had surrounded. But the high command report indicated the main an thrust was directed at cutting off the Black Sea port of Odessa, 140 miles below Uman.

In the north, the Nazi high command said German columns driving rd Leningrad had captured Wesenberg, 68 miles southeast of the Czarist capital, and penetrated to the Gulf of Finland.

If true, this would indicate that the Russian-held capital of Estonia, nn, is cut off by land. It would mean, too, that the Russian Baltic was in jeopardy from German guns pressing toward its big base ronstadt.

Meanwhile, the possibility arose that Russian warplanes had ped Berlin during the night for the first time in the war.

The Germans reported that hostile planes attacked the capital overnight fo rthe 80th time, killing some civilians and inflicting minor property damage. London officials said the RAF had not raided Berlin.

From their nearest bases, either in Estonia or in the Smolensk sector, Soviet planes would have to fly more than 600 miles to raid Berlin—1,200 miles round trip.

The first anniversary of the opening of the battle of Britain, when German and British planes clashed in the greatest air battles the world has seen, found the RAF carrying on its own day and night offensive against occupied France and western Germany while the Germans directed small forces against Britain.

London said the main objectives of last night's raids were Essen, Hamm and Dortmund.

German planes bombed a few places in eastern England and Scotland causing some injuries and damage. Germans said five British planes were shot down over England during the night.

From Ankara came reports that Germany had warned Iran she would sever diplomatic relations with this strategic Middle East country if German nationals were expelled as Britain has asked.

In Berlin, a Nazi spokesman denied the Ankara report, asserting that Iran had already rejected British demands for the ousting of Germans and that the Reich had every reason to be satisfied with Iran's attitude.

The Far East crisis boiled along in a torrent of charges and counter-charges.

Australia's prime minister Robert G. Menzies declared his country "stands with bated breath in a most vital hour of her history," while the Japanese bitterly accused the United States, Great Britain, China and the Dutch East Indies of clamping a military-economic ring around the empire.

Japan's authoritative naval expert, Lieut.-Commander Tota Ishimaru, said Manchukuo, China, Indo-China and Thailand had already joined Japan's "co-prosperity sphere," and he suggested:

"Getting the Indies oil and Malay rubber is a bit difficult, but it should be a cinch if we tackle the problem after the German fashion".

Prime Minister Menzies proclaimed solemnly that "the war has taken an ominous turn for Australia" in the past week's developments, "but we are immeasurably

Debate Opens in House on Extension Bill

CHANGES IN TAX SETUP ARE ASKED BY MORGENTHAU

Secretary of the Treasury Tells Senate Finance Committee Revenue from House-Approved Bill Should be Increased to $3,500,000,000

HEARINGS LAUNCHED

Washington, Aug. 8—(AP)—Advocating an "all-out tax program for defense," Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau asked congress today to tax millions of additional persons with small incomes by cutting personal income tax exemptions and to stiffen other taxes on married couples, corporations and others.

He told the Senate finance committee that the revenue from the House approved tax bill should be increased from its present $3,206,200,000 to "at least" $3,500,000,000. He hinted strongly he would like much more.

Reading a 15-page statement, the treasury head asked a dozen changes to boost the yield of the tax bill, but said his proposed new taxes on "millions of people with low incomes" should not be attempted "unless we reach in other places where ability to pay is escaping its fair share of taxes."

He explained that this applied to married couples and corporations, particularly.

Morgenthau gave no figures on how deeply he thought personal exemptions should be cut. Only last year, however, the exemption for heads of families was cut from $2,500 to $2,000 and the exemption for single persons was reduced from $1,000 to $800.

Suggestions have been heard recently that the new exemptions might be $1,500 for married couples and $700 for single persons.

The Senate finance committee opened hearings today on the $3,206,200,000 tax bill with members expecting Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to lead off with recommendations for extensive increases in the House-approved measure.

Informed committeemen said the cabinet official doubtless would urge that the Senate raise the total by at least $323,000,000, which was the amount of prospective revenue lost when the House deleted a clause which would have required husbands and wives to file joint income tax returns.

WALKOUTS HALT DEFENSE WORK IN TWO PLANTS

By the Associated Press

Several hundred AFL members walked out on $100,000,000 worth of defense work at the Curtiss-Wright Corporation propeller division plant at Caldwell, N. J., today while a CIO strike continued to hold up $493,000,000 of naval and merchant shipbuilding at Kearny, N. J.

The latter case may be referred directly to President Roosevelt for action, a defense official indicated.

At Caldwell, a company official said the plant's entire production on defense orders was imperiled. The plant employs several thousand workers.

Those who walked off their jobs were members of the AFL-International Association of Machinists. John Hart, company spokesman, said the workers "asked more money, but have made no specific demands and have not presented their request in writing."

The AFL union yesterday lost a National Labor Relations Board election for collective bargaining agent at Curtiss-Wright's Caldwell and Clifton plants. Propeller Craft, an independent union, won, 1,094 to 526.

The walk off occurred shortly before William S. Knudsen, director of the Office of Production Management, was scheduled to inspect the plant. The workers who walked off strolled quietly about the outer walls of the plant and attempted no picketing.

The Kearny strike may be referred to the president, said Frank Graham, acting chairman of the Defense Mediation Board, unless 18,000 employes of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Company go back to work soon.

In a previous dispute which the Mediation Board referred to the White House, President Roosevelt ordered troops to reopen the North American Aviation Company's California plant.

'Dangerous Life' Ends for Bruno

Premier Sends Body of Plane Accident Victim to Home Town for Burial After War Hero's Funeral Procession is Held at Ancient Pisa

Pisa, Italy, Aug. 8—(AP)—Premier Mussolini sent the body of his son, Bruno, to Predappio, Il Duce's home town, for burial after a war hero's funeral procession today through the flower-strewn streets of this ancient city.

Arriving in the darkened room of the local Fascist headquarters where Bruno lay in state with two companions who died in an air crash yesterday, Mussolini paused long beside the open casket.

Those in the room said afterward "his severe face expressed the emotional pride of his immense sorrow."

Bruno's mother, Donna Rachele; his 23-yera-old widow, and his sister, Countess Edda Ciano, heavily veiled, stood aside when the coffin was taken out on the shoulders

REP. FISH ATTACKS MEASURE

With Administration Leaders Standing Firm for Indefinite Service in Preference to 18-Month Maximum Voted by Senate, Unusual Forenoon Session is Ordered in Effort to Reach Vote Monday

THREAT IS MADE BY REPUBLICAN FACTION

Washington, Aug. 8—(AP)—Rep. Cox (D-Ga) told the house today it should approve indefinite extension of service for all men in uniform "because war is inevitable".

"The public has given overwhelming support to the president in what he has done and if this means war, there is little reason to complain," the Georgia congressman told the attentive house as it opened seven hours of debate on its service extension bill.

Earlier Rep. Fish (R-NY) had attacked the measure as part of a "gigantic conspiracy" he said was designed to involve this country in wars all over the globe.

Fish catalogued Secretary of War Stimson, who has asked for an indefinite extension of the service of Selectees, Reservists and National Guardsmen, as "our leading warmaker."

The senate has approved an 18-month extension, but administration leaders in the house still are holding out for the indeterminate term of duty.

STRIKE OF LUMBER HAULERS IS SETTLED

Uniontown, Aug. 8.—(AP)—CIO lumber workers and truck drivers, on strike since July 21, began returning to work today on the strength of an agreement signed with some lumber operators giving the CIO United Construction Workers exclusive bargaining rights.

The compact was made last night at a truce meeting of all parties concerned. The Tri-State Lumbermen's Association first agreed to scrap a contract signed last week with the Independent Tri-State Truckers and Lumbermen's union and deal instead with the CIO.

Negotiations for a wage scale will start Monday.

Gov. James To Name Commission To Handle Paroles By October 1

New System, Authorized in Legislation Signed Thursday, Becomes Effective in June, 1942, Will Not Include Juvenile Cases

$400,000 APPROPRIATED

Harrisburg, Aug. 8—(AP)—A five-man commission to handle Pennsylvania's new parole system—leaving only first degree murder cases to the pardon board which has issued paroles in the past—will be named by Governor James by October 1.

The new system, authorized in legislation signed by the governor yesterday, becomes effective in June, 1942. The ensuing months will be devoted to the shift over. The commission will have $400,000 with which to administer the sweeping new plan.

The commission will take over all paroles, except for prisoners sentenced to two years or less, and first degree murder cases. It will advise the pardon board on the murder cases as well. The pardon board consists of the lieutenant governor, who serves as chairman, the attorney general, secretary of state and secretary of internal affairs.

Juvenile cases will be left to the local courts.

JAPAN CHARGES ENCIRCLEMENT EFFORTS MADE

Spokesman Accuses United States, Britain, China and The Netherlands East Indies With Forming Offense Cordon Around Nation

LONDON UNPERTURBED

Tokyo, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Japan has recognized officially military, political and economic encirclement of her empire by the United States, Great Britain, China and The Netherlands East Indies, Koh Ishii, cabinet information bureau spokesman, said today.

Ishii's blunt statement was the first government comment charging the formation of a cordon around Japan. Before today the Japanese press alone had been sharply critical of reported American, British and Chinese preparations to forestall any possible Japanese military expansion beyond French Indo-China and had asserted the Americans, British, Chungking Chinese and Dutch Colonials were bent on offensive encirclement of Japan.

When Ishii's attention was called to a statement by British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden that preparations were being made at Singapore for any eventually in Malaya or southern Asia, he said:

"Why is it necessary for the British to make such preparations? It is reported the British

HULL REPLIES TO STORIES OF AXIS

Washington, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull said today that Germany was looking with longing eyes to the western hemisphere for further conquest.

He asserted also that Japan alone was responsible for any encirclement of itself in the Pacific.

These comments were made by Hull at his press conference on statements by official spokesmen in Berlin and Tokyo.

The Berlin sources said a German campaign was to be launched to expose what they called ruthless power politics by President Roosevelt in Latin America.

The Japanese spokesman asserted that Japan was encircled by the United States, Britain, China and the Netherlands.

Hull described the Berlin claim as a transparent piece of propaganda which he said would not deceive, much less be seriously considered, by any country in this hemisphere.

It came, he added, from a group representing a government which had ruthlessly seized some 15 countries in Europe and was looking with longing eyes to this hemisphere for further conquest.

Famous Side-Wheeler Goes to Scrap Heap

Cleveland, Aug. 8.—(AP)—One of the Great Lakes' most famous side-wheelers headed for the scrap heap today, her metal to be remelted and made into war defense materials.

The 43-year-old city of Erie was sold to the Otis Steel Co., by the liquidating Cleveland & Buffalo Transit Co.

She had been moored here since 1939 when the company discontinued its passenger and freight service between Cleveland and Buffalo. Built in Wyandotte, Mich., the boat had a 316 foot keel.

Once the finest and fastest ship on the lakes, the City of Erie's most famous exploit was winning a widely-publicized race from Cleveland to Erie with the steamer Pashmoo of Detroit in 1901.

AGED MAN DROWNS IN RIVER

Jacob L. Klinestiver, 76, Well Known Resident of East Hickory, Loses Life in Allegheny Near That Place While Fishing Thursday Afternoon; Tragedy is Discovered and Body Recovered Few Hours Later

FUNERAL SERVICES TO BE HELD SATURDAY

(Special to the Times-Mirror)

Tionesta, Aug. 7.—Jacob L. Klinestiver, 76, of East Hickory, one of the best known citizens of that community, lost his life by drowning in the Allegheny river near that place about 5 o'clock this afternoon while fishing.

Mr. Klinestiver had gone fishing about 12:30 in the afternoon and was wading on a swift riffle about 30 rods above the summer home of Mrs. N. P. Wheeler, Jr., on the east side of the river. He was last seen there about 4:30 o'clock and it is thought that he may have slipped on the slippery stones in the bottom of the river or was overcome by illness and fell into the water.

Shortly before 9 o'clock, Robert Anderson, aged 12, of East Hickory, who was out in a boat, saw what he thought was a turtle's head in the water and on rowing up to the object saw that it was a cane which Mr. Klinestiver kept tied to his bet and then saw a body in the water. He went for help and Miss Margaret Smith, of Deposit, N. Y., a niece of Mrs. Wheeler, went with him. They found the body of Mr. Klinestiver which had floated a short distance down the river and lodged against a rock in about four feet of water. They notified the boy's grandfather, J. A. Anderson, Sr., who recovered the body from the river.

Mr. Klinestiver, who had been almost totally blind for nearly 10 years, being able to distinguish only between daylight and darkness, used the cane, which was the direct cause of his body being found so soon after the accident, when he walked along the pavement of the road to feel his way along the edge.

Coroner E. W. Pifer, of Tionesta, who was called, decided that an inquest was not necessary and brought the body to the Haslet funeral home in Tionesta to be prepared for burial.

Jacob Lawrence Klinestiver was a son of the late George and Dorcas Lawrence Klinestiver and was born at Beaver Valley, Forest county, Nov. 8, 1864. He was educated in the common schools of the county and attended Allegheny College for one term. He followed

LIABILITY RULES EASED ON CARS

Washington, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Each of the 10,000,000-odd passenger automobiles in the east became a potential semi-taxi today upon announcement that insurance companies had eased their liability rules, permitting motorists to share their cars on a pro-rata cost basis as a gasoline conservation measure.

Defense Petroleum Coordinator Ickes announced that, under the modification, drivers will be permitted to carry passengers for charge without paying an increased premium rate and without running a risk of having their policy contracts voided entirely. Persons driving to and from work were urged by Ickes to pick up their neighbors going in the same direction, thus obviating the need of using several automobiles which would multiply gas consumption.

Old rules governing the insurance company's liability permitted automobile owners to carry passengers for pay only when stipulated in the policy, and then upon payment of an additional premium of 10 per cent, Ickes explained.

He said 82 stock and mutual casualty insurance companies voluntarily modified certain underwriting rules to encourage the "share your car" campaign in the effort to cut gasoline consumption on the Atlantc seaboard by one-third.

Smartly Dressed Women in Business and Professional Life Agree Gladly to Sponsor Cotton or Other Substitute Style

MAKE-UP MAY BE FAD

Philadelphia, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Smartly dressed women, leaders in the city's society, business and professional life, are ready to abandon the silk stocking standard cheerfully.

In fact, they agree gladly to sponsor a cotton or other substitute style so that the nation's dwindling supply of silk might go entirely to the army and navy for parachutes and powder bags.

"I shouldn't mind wearing cotton stockings at all; why, I used to wear them when I was a girl," declares Mrs. Harry Lippincott Cassard, long noted for her beautiful grooming.

The grand mother of debutante Sally Cassard, she recalls wearing cotton stockings as a youngster to match her dress "like the fashion experts have been trying to get us to do recently," the colored cottons "were very pretty, and quite expensive," she said.

Nina Liggett, glamour girl of the 1938-39 social season and now a prominent fashion careerist, draws the line at cotton but adds blithely she wouldn't mind saying goodbye to silk.

"I'm going to wear make-up on my legs and never have to worry again about runs in my stock-

Ninety-Dollar Party for 2,500 To "Forget War" Called Great Success

BY FRANKLIN BANKER

Pittsburgh, Aug. 8—(AP)—A young married couple who invited 2,500 persons to a $90 party at their six-room home last night "to become better acquainted and forget war talk" called the affair "a great success."

The hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Curry, Jr., said:

"We had a swell time and everybody thought it was a grand idea. We think that if everyone would be more friendly with each other and have a good time, the world would be a better place for us all."

Curry, a 23-year-old bank clerk, thought up the idea. He invited all the residents of his voting district—but talk of politics, war and such stuff was banned.

Instead the guests, ranging from little tots in bright summer outfits to beaming grandparents, sipped soda pop, ate ice cream out of paper cups, sang popular songs chatted and were entertained with accordion and piano selections.

They all didn't fit into the parlor at once, of course, but there was room elsewhere about the front lawn, driveway and backyard. No one counted the guests. There were probably several hundred.

today, the first anniversary of the start of the air battle of Britain.

Just a year ago the luftwaffe threw 300 bombers and 500 fighters against a channel convoy to start the greatest air battles the world has known. On that day the Germans lost 53 planes but continued their attack until October 31 at a cost put by the British at 2,375 planes.

Last night's raids by the RAF centered on western Germany after two daylight sweeps in which a German airdrome near St. Omer, France, German shipping and other targets near Gravelines were bombed. Germans last night bombed a few places in eastern England and Scotland, injuring a small number of people and causing some damage.

Planes also were playing a major role in the battle of the Atlantic which took a more favorable turn in July, it was announced by A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty.

Berlin, Aug. 8.—(AP)—This capital was raided by air last night but the German High Command, aside from an implication that the raiders were British, did not identify the "individual planes" which bombed Berlin.

For its own offensive score the luftwaffe reported attacks on shipping, airports of England and one harbor on the Scottish east coast as well as on ships and harbor facilities at the British Egyptian base of Alexandria.

MONASTERY MAY GO UNDER THE HAMMER

Pittsburgh, Aug. 8—(AP)—The monastery of St. Teresa of Tisieux at Loretto, given to the Carmelite Sisters by the late Steelmaster Charles Schwab, may be sold at sheriff's auction to satisfy a $20,000 debt.

Attorney C. Randolph Myers, of Ebensburg, reported here that a St. Louis bank last month obtained judgment for that amount on a bond issue which Schwab had guaranteed. He said interest payments on the bonds stopped eight months after Schwab's death in 1939 and that no means had been found to make the payments.

The picturesque monastery is near the Schwab summer home, Immergrun.

KELLY THROUGH WITH QUAKER CITY POLITICS

Philadelphia, Aug. 8—(AP)—John B. Kelly has stepped out permanently as city chairman of the Democratic party to devote all his time to his new job as national director of civilian health training.

His action stunned the city committee after it gathered last night to act on what was expected to be merely a request for leave of absence. Committeemen were loath to accept the resignation until Kelly made it clear he would not reconsider because he regarded his new job as permanent and not an emergency task.

Gov. James to Name Commission to Handle Paroles by October 1

(From Page One)

The new parole commissioners will receive $10,000 annually, with $500 extra for the chairman. They will appoint a state parole director at $7,500, and up to 10 district parole supervisors at $5,000 each.

Employes of the commission will be required to pass competitive examinations and will be given civil service status.

James vetoed a bill which would have appropriated $25,000 for a study of Pennsylvania's parole system in relation to other states. Rep. Samuel M. Rosenfeld (D-Phila) sponsored the bill which James approved, and which gives the commission power to act on persons already sentenced.

Another legislative combination was split up by veto and signature when James approved an $8,500,000 appropriation to second class townships for roads and bridges, to be spent by the local supervisors, and rejected a $9,500,000 appropriation to first class townships and Philadelphia.

The governor explained that the funds for first class townships were not provided in the budget and never had been appropriated before. The second class township appropriation has been made for many bienniums past.

James suggested that the supervisors in Pennsylvania's 1,500 second class townships might increase the available funds for roads by sponsoring projects under the new "little WPA" plan backed by the state.

The commonwealth will put up a share of the costs for such projects, which are required to take labor from the relief rolls.

James now has signed 403 bills, vetoed 51, and is still holding 43.

The governor tried to arrange his appointments today to enable him to join an official party visiting Ricketts' Glen, 13,000-acre tract of virgin timber and dotted with waterfalls and lakes, in Luzerne, Wyoming and Sullivan counties. The legislature authorized purchase of the glen for $150,000, for a state park.

They followed Il Duce as he slowly descended the stairs to the street. Highest Fascist generals, admirals and German officers completed the procession.

All of Pisa's 75,000 inhabitants seemed to jam the streets. Children continually threw flowers in front of the procession and the city's church bells tolled.

While the band played the Fascist hymn the coffin was placed in the funeral car of a train for the journey to Predappio.

Old Silk Stockings To Be Collected for Defense Industries

Announcement was made today that worn silk stockings are being collected here to be sent to the government for reprocessing and use in national defense industries.

It was stated this morning that the Metzger-Wright store here is collecting the old silk stockings. They will be sent to the Government Testing Laboratory, Hoboken, N. J., where they will be reprocessed.

"By the women of the country turning in these discarded stockings, it will not only help defense, but leave more silk for manufacture of silk hose," it was stated today. "Thus, in a roundabout way, the women are helping with defense and also with their own stocking problems."

The discarded hose may be taken to the Metzger-Wright store here at any time during store hours, it was pointed out.

OUTDOOR MEAL IS ENJOYED AT COUNTRY CLUB

Men of the Conewango Valley Country Club held their first annual stag picnic yesterday evening in the grove between No. 1 and No. 2 fairways, this outdoor meal being an innovation for the regular men's day and taking the place of the usual dinner at the clubhouse.

Members and their guests enjoyed steaks grilled over charcoal and green corn as the chief items on the picnic menu.

Among the guests were a number of former Warren men, including T. K. Creal, Sr., of Lake Worth, Fla.; Clair Lowe, of Trinidad, South America, and Ralpn Lowe, of Charleston, W. Va., who are vacationing at Lake Chautauqua; Snowden Richards, Nathan Parker and Norman C. Ray, of Pittsburgh, Kay, Richards, Inc., officials here to visit the local office for the day.

Qualifying rounds for the men's championship are under way today, Saturday and Sunday, with first flight matches following next week.

With but one more day remaining for voters to register in order to be eligible to vote at the September primary, it was reported today by E. E. Lindmark, chief registration clerk, that county residents have been very slow to enroll.

At Columbus yesterday, where a special registration was held, only about thirty persons visited the registrar and most of these were for change of address. Only about a dozen new registrations were received, it was stated.

At the office of the registration commission in the court house here, only 148 persons have been registered so far this year. These include 109 Republicans, 35 Democrats and four non-partisans.

Change of party affiliation also has been light. To date there have been 28 Democrats who have changed to Republican and five Republicans changed to Democrats.

The office of the registration commission will remain open tonight and tomorrow night until nine o'clock in order to permit everyone to register who desires to do so.

Monday is the last day for any elector who has moved into a new election district to give notice to the registration commission in order to be permitted to vote at the fall primary. However, these persons must have moved on or before July 8th in order to be eligible to vote at the primary.

A change has been made in the law regarding change of address within an election district, making it possible for an elector to cast his ballot at the polls without first notifying the registration commission. However, full details concerning this law were being studied at the court house here today and will be announced later.

SERVICES HELD THURSDAY FOR KANE PASTORS

Funeral services were held in Kane on Thursday for two of the community's most popular and well known pastors, with requiem high mass at St. Callistus' church at ten o'clock for Father P. J. Donahue, and at 2:30 o'clock in Tabor Lutheran church for Rev. J. V. Benson.

During the morning rites, Father Jerome J. Maher, assistant to the late priest, acted as celebrant; Father J. F. Murphy, of Ridgway, as deacon, and Father Michael E. Dailey, of the Holy Redeemer church here, as sub-deacon. The eulogy was delivered by Father John McAndrew, of Conneaut, and final absolution was given by Bishop John Mark Gannon, of Erie.

Immediately following the services, the funeral cortege left for Bradford, where committal services were conducted by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. David F. Hickey in St. Bernard's cemetery.

Accompanying Father Dailey to the services were Father Edward Jacobs, of St. Joseph's, and Father Arnold Walters, home on vacation from Statesville, N. C. Father M. J. Macken, of St. Clara's church in Clarendon, was in attendance, also.

Rev. Felix V. Hanson, of Jamestown, N. Y., president of the New York Conference of the Augustana Synod, conducted the final rites for Rev. Benson, which were attended by ministers and laymen from throughout this section.

Rev. W. W. Nyline, representing the Kane Ministerial Association, paid the respects of that body, and the entire board of education of Kane public schools, of which Mr. Benson was a member, attended in a body. At 2:30, as the church bell tolled for the opening of the service, it was joined by the heavy bells of St. Callistus in a tribute to Rev. Benson, Tabor bells having tolled in the morning hours for the departed priest and friend of the Lutheran minister.

Assisting Dr. Hanson were Rev. H. M. Fahnstrom, of Wilcox; Rev. A. B. Bergstrom, of Ridgway; and Rev. C. Russell Lundgren, of Port Allegany. Honorary bearers were other ministers of the Conference and Synod.

Rev. Bertil Edquist, of St. Paul's church here, and Rev. Carl Gronquist, of Sheffield and Ludlow charges, attended from this section.

IMPORTANT TO VOTERS

This reminder may be a little tardy but it is not entirely too late to be of service to citizens who may have neglected to make certain that they are eligible to vote in the September primary.

The County Commissioners have given publicity to the fact that Saturday will be the last day for citizens to change party affiliations to be effective to vote this fall, and the same thing applies to new voters who are not registered.

At the same time it has been announced that changes of address must be filed in the commissioners' office at the court house by Monday, August 11th.

For the accommodation of those who may have overlooked this important duty the county officials have arranged to have the commissioners' office open this evening and until nine o'clock tomorrow night.

Summed up, this means that if you desire to change party affiliation, have changed address since the last election, or desire to vote for the first time this fall, better go to the court house and be properly registered before tomorrow night at nine o'clock.

DOESN'T SEEM TO BE WORKING

An Associated Press dispatch from Washington received by the Times-Mirror too late for publication Thursday states that an increase of 1,029,886 gallons in the weekly use of motor fuels in the east, was the public's reply to "insistent and repeated appeals" for a voluntary cut of one-third.

Petroleum Coordinator Ickes says the figures supplied by fifteen principal oil companies for the week ending August first showed that the sales of gasoline to dealers and through company-owned service stations totaled 117,716,502 gallons, compared with 116,686,636 gallons for the week ending July 25, and 115,155,694 for the week ending July 18.

Since the report for the week ending August first was compiled the "gasolineless nights" edict was issued, and it will be interesting to watch the result of the new order.

So far as Warren is concerned experience so far indicates that motorists have met the situation merely by buying more fuel during the day to make up for the quantities they formerly obtained in the evening or at night.

Ickes renewed the warning yesterday that a compulsory plan to conserve gasoline in the east "may not be very far off," and it would not be amiss to predict that a rating card system by Labor Day may be the next move, if the curfew plan now being tried out does not work.

There will be no conservation of fuel during these gasolineless nights unless there is less operating of automobiles.

According to reports from Washington the Surplus Marketing Administration bought a million cans of surplus grapefruit juice to feed the British, but the limejuicers had never heard of it and wouldn't have it. The free school lunch program will get it next winter.

Here's a tip for Warren girls and women who are stocking up on silk stockings: The Bureau of Standards recommends that silk hose be washed immediately after being purchased to make 'em keep longer.

No wonder those Warren boys employed down at Washington are so well satisfied with their jobs. They say the capital has 91 males to every 100 females.

Aside to the youngsters: Repairs have been about completed on the buildings in the borough for the opening of the fall term next month!

It isn't helping Uncle Sam to conserve fuel by buying up quantities of gasoline to be stored in dangerous places about the garage or the home.

Good time now to be looking after your furnace and getting it in shape for the first wintry blast.

It appears that since Americans dropped the "ho" out of "ho, hum," things have been humming.

In a Strange Sort of Way, That Sounds Familiar

• EDSON'S WASHINGTON COLUMN •

BY PETER EDSON
Times-Mirror Washington Correspondent

Washington, Aug. 8—With all the millions and billions of dollars being appropriated and thrown around Washington these days, it is good medicine, every now and then, to take a run over to the department of the government which seems to get a big kick out of saving a few thousand dollars here and there.

This outfit, known as the Treasury Procurement division, does most of the miscellaneous buying for all the government agencies, excepting only the defense purchases and what the Department of Agriculture buys of surplus commodities.

Just the other day, for instance, the Procurement division announced that it had saved the government $11,000 on snake bite kits. Now at first thought you might imagine that the only need the government had for snake bite kits would be to administer when Republicans bit Democrats and vice versa, or when New Dealers bit businessmen and vice versa. But that isn't the situation at all.

The Department of Agriculture and Interior have field agents and forest rangers, and then there's the Border Patrol, all of whom frequently run into real rattlesnakes, copperheads or gila monsters and have to take steps. Heretofore, there have been no standard specifications for snake bite kits, and the prices have varied. But the Specifications division of the Procurement division got all the boys together recently, got them to agree on a standard kit, and by making purchases in quantity, saved Uncle Sam the 11 grand.

This matter of standardization of specifications on non-defense purchases is what the Procurement division is working on all the time now, and it's bringing results. The drive for simplification has been indirectly spurred on by the defense program, for in the desire to get civilian manufacturing down to as few lines as possible, in order to switch productive capacity over to defense items, corners have to be cut.

The OPM crowd got Treasury Procurement interested in this work, and now all government agencies have to submit their purchase orders to this division for analysis, simplification and check.

The thing even gets down to fights over typewriter ribbons. There are specifications, it seems, and then there are alternate specifications. Your normal, peacetime typewriter ribbon is a special, finely woven silk with over three hundred threads to the inch. There's a shortage of these fine weaves, however, because of the demand for balloon silk. So the government has adopted alternate specifications in which they take a coarser weave in the typewriter ribbons. Soldiers who go up in balloons should think of the hardships they work on government clerks, because of this, whenever sky-riding.

Incidentally, the government used over a million typewriter ribbons last year. And still more incidentally, the government used nine million pencils, 94 million sheets of carbon paper and 180 million paper clips. As that's nearly a paper clip and a half for every man, woman and child in the country, it can be taken that maybe this is what holds the democracy together. Linked end to end, they should stop the German invasion. Maybe, also, it explains the steel shortage.

Italians Fail to Chase British Out of Malta

MALTA, lying 140 miles from the Italian mainland and 180 from Africa, is Britain's naval base in the middle Mediterranean. It is a British bulwark between Gibraltar on the west and Alexandria and Suez on the east.

Since 1798, when England seized the island from Napoleon, Malta has been under British control. It is a British Crown Colony consisting of three islands, Malta, Gozo and Comino. The government issued the stamp above, showing the important harbor at Valletta, in 1901.

Lord Nelson, who captured the island, said: "Malta is absolutely worthless as a British naval base." Until the myth of Italian military strength was exploded in World War II, Malta was considered hopelessly vulnerable by the British. The proximity of the island to Italy along with the vaunted Italian air arm were thought to be too severe handicaps for the British defenders.

Italy has boxed in the island fortress by mines and subjected it to repeated air attack without much success.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The nicest thing I can report today is the arrival of two slim-legged youngsters whose names are Margarita and Maria, who come from Morelia, Mexico, to sing south-of-the-border ballads to the citizens who find Benito Collada's Greenwich Village restaurant, El Chico, a gratifying rendezvous these high-starred, long, hot nights.

Margarita and Maria are sisters and their last name is Padilla. They are part Indian. They have a repertoire of 3,700 ballads, laments, and romantic songs, and when I interrupted to ask, "Did you say three thousand and seven hundred?" they nodded and answered "Si."

That's a lot of songs, you think, and Margarita agrees with you. "That's also a mighty good brand of English you speak for a girl who was reared in the central sector of Mexico," you say to this girl, who is three years the senior of her 20-year-old sister.

"We went to night school three years," she explained. "But even now I do not arrange my words properly. In English you put the adjective before the noun, which is difficult for me to remember, as when I tried to send a night letter the other night and told the telegraph operator I wanted to send a 'letter night'."

YOU sit in El Chico in little alcoves under the imperial seals of the provinces of old Spain, and suddenly the Padilla sisters, in wide, hooped and braided Mexican-Indian skirts come out.

These dresses weigh so much their shoulders ache just from the weight. . . . "Cost me 450 pesos," Margarita confessed, indicating the black, blue, white, green and silver of her costume. The sombrero, or Mexican hat that dangled from each of their small, olive necks cost 150 pesos.

They had guitars and they strummed their own accompaniment as they sang "La Borracha," which is a song about a girl who has had "one drink too many." Their singing, always in Spanish, never in English, is riotous, gay, sometimes undisciplined but always noisily appreciated.

A number they dote on singing is "Caste Y Veras," which means "Get Married and You'll See," and another is "Prinonero de Mar," a bolero which means "Prisoner of the Ocean."

MARIA, who is the quieter of the two, shyly confessed she was hog wild over Bette Davis and wishes she could be like that distinguished film actress.

Though this is their first glimpse of New York their names are not entirely unknown in the record shops and juke-box casinos of the metropolis. Margarita and Maria have been recording their softly romantic tunes for Columbia the last four years.

In private life Margarita loves above all else the rhythms of the tango, and after that the bolero. Surprisingly, she cares little about dancing. She is single and so is Maria, "but the ring which I have changed to this finger used to be an engagement ring," admits Margarita. This is a condition that may soon be altered. In the last year El Chico has had three of its most fetching people forsake professional life for matrimony.

Chapter Ten

Bombshell For Eve

"JEFF, have you found Lee Gray? Tell us!"

"I don't know if I should trust you with a thing like that, Haila."

"Jeff, stop it! I swear I won't breathe a word to any-one."

"Well," he lowered his voice and looked around, "I'll tell you then. It isn't you."

"That's enlightening. Is that all?"

"No. It isn't Eve North or Alice McDonald. It isn't Phoebe Thompson. They thought that note might have been written by one of the women in the cast and signed with a fictitious name. But specimens of all their handwriting show that none of them compares with Lee Gray's."

"Apparently not."

"Well, that's swell. You're getting along fine. Now get off those chairs. Carol and I have a show to play."

Jeff obligingly went and stood in the corner while we made up. I glanced at Carol in the glass. Her hands shook a little as she dabbed on rouge and purple eye shadow and dotted her lashes with mascara, but long before the call for places came she was ready, waiting with her hands folded in her lap.

Peterson opened the door and looked around the room. "Feeling all right, Miss Blanton?"

She nodded briefly and managed a smile.

He said, "That's fine. Now don't worry. Everything's going to be okay tonight. I'll be near you all the time."

Jeff said, "Me, too, Carol. All you have to do is reach our your hand to touch me."

Peterson grimaced good-naturedly, "Yeah, Troy's playing cop now, too.

It was nearly eight-fifteen when Eve arrived. We heard her running lightly up the stairs, Amelia's sonorous footsteps close behind her, and the door of the dressing room next to ours clicked shut. Jeff went out quickly and I followed him, watching as he knocked at Eve's door. It opened only a crack, which Amelia's bulk filled amply, and Jeff said, "I want to see Miss North."

"She can't see you."

"Only for a second," Jeff said firmly.

"She don't have a second, she's late now. She has to dress. The door shut in his face. He waited a moment and lifted his hand to knock again. Then apparently he thought better of it and came back.

"Congratulations," I said.

He scowled at me. "When does that sea lion named Amelia leave her side?"

"Almost never. Sit down and stop fretting. You won't be able to see her now until intermission. She's on nearly all of the first act."

That first act was a nightmare. I had known our performances would be uninspired, but I hadn't expected a weird burlesque. And that was what "Green Apples," acclaimed and lauded by the critics in the morning, amounted to that Tuesday night.

Anxious to show, I think, how completely unaffected he was by all this mystery, Philip Ashley overacted until he might have been playing the dagger scene from "Macbeth" instead of a quietly humorous British professor. Steve was jumpy, too, the unhurried, gangly quality that gave his work such charm gone completely. Only Eve showed nothing at all. Her performance was a replica of the one she had given the night before, identical to the slightest detail. I don't quite know what I did. With my mind on Carol all the time, I went mechanically through my lines and business, my exits and my entrances.

Tension

THE audience seemed cold and hostile to us from the first and we hated them for it. We threw our funny lines in their collective faces with a there-that's-funny-laugh-now-damn-you air. The applause, when the curtain fell on the first act, was scattered and painfully polite.

I looked at Carol standing behind the chair at stage left and drew a breath of deep relief. That much was over anyway. That much was behind us. I took her arm and we went upstairs together. Peterson following us. Over the banister I caught a glimpse of a black-clad figure hurrying across the stage toward the prop room.

As we went into the dressing room Peterson, having told Jeff to stand by for a few minutes, went clattering back down the stirs.

"I just saw the sea lion on stage," I told Jeff after the detective had disappeared. "I think she's getting Eve some tea or something. Now's your chance, M. Poirot. I'll take care of Carol."

He was out before I had finished. I heard his knock on Eve's door and her "Who is it?" I slipped out of the white sport dress and into the lamé evening gown, trying to keep my ear against the wall. Eve's voice rang out astonishingly clear.

"I don't see people during a performance! Please leave."

Jeff said, "You don't see people hardly any time, Miss North. But I'm afraid you've got to see me now."

Eve was resigned and patient. "Well, what is it?"

Carol turned from her mirror and opened her mouth to speak. I gestured toward Eve's room and she stopped and sat up straight listening, too, her eyes riveted on the wall in front of her.

"It is none of your concern, Mr. Troy," Eve was saying in a voice cold with repressed fury, "what I was doing at that table. It's outrageous that you should ask. I won't tolerate this . . . bursting in and questioning me about my acting . . ."

"I don't want to know anything about your acting," Jeff said. "Last night you inserted some business that wasn't acting around that table. And when there is the question of murder . . ."

There was a toppling sound as though someone had clutched at something and found it had seesawed before steadying itself. Then, after a pause, Eve's voice came again, almost a whisper.

"Murder!"

"You didn't know?" Jeff was surprised.

"No, I didn't. It's . . . it's a shock to me."

"You've been out of town all day so you couldn't have talked to anybody from the theater, Miss North . . . but surely you've seen the newspapers."

Eve said very quietly, "I haven't seen any papers since the first editions this morning. I think you can understand that, Mr. Troy."

"I understand," Jeff said. "Then you wouldn't know about Carol. She was poisoned last night in the dining room scene. There were four grams of morphine in the glass she drank out of."

Shock For Eve

THE wall trembled slightly, I've must have leaned against it. We waited an eternity for the sound of her voice. "Morphine in her glass. . . ." She breathed the words. I could scarcely catch them.

"Yes," Jeff said. "So you must see why I'm anxious to know why you were doing things, unrehearsed things, at that table. I know you did. I heard Mr. Ashley speaking to you about it last night. He said you rattled glasses."

Eve said falteringly, "There were no flowers on the table, there was nothing for me to do." She broke off suddenly and laughed. "Oh, I see, Mr. Troy! I do see what you're getting at! You think that possibly I was doing something else at the table, perhaps slipping . . . morphine, did you say it was? . . . into Carol's glass!"

"I'm merely asking questions, Miss North."

"That would've been a clever idea! While a thousand people were watching, to have dropped the poison in the glass before their very eyes and not to have been seen doing it!" Eve laughed again, almost hysterically. "That would have taken a good actress! And even you must know by now, Mr. Troy, that I'm not a good actress. For further details see your favorite newspaper." The bitterness drained from Eve's voice and she went on, sounding very old and very tired. "No, I didn't do it. . . . I didn't poison Carol Blanton. . . . I . . . I . . ."

If Eve said anything more, Tommy calling "Places" at our door drowned out her words. He went next door and we heard his incredulity at finding Eve still in her first act costume. Then we heard Clint Bowers in the hall outside talking to Tommy, telling him to hold the curtain a few minutes. Jeff came back looking grim.

There was only time for Carol and me to take hasty, unseeing glances in the mirror and run out. Alice was outside the door and Carol said as we passed: "Don't go away, Alice. We may need you yet."

It was said lightly, jestingly, but the tight-lipped smile that accompanied the words showed what an effort it had been.

The second act went some better. The detectives were still keeping vigil but they were listening to the lines. Sullavan seemed frankly puzzled by Greeley Morris' brilliant display of wit, but Peterson smiled in the right places.

Philip Ashley had toned down his performance and the rest of us gradually took his pace. I trembled when Eve made her entrance in that act. From the moment she swept on, her hand tinkering at the collar of the icy white jacket she wore over her evening dress in a gesture that had long ago been famous, I knew that it would be all right. Eve had trouped too long and too hard to let anything ruffle her stage composure.

Her voice, as she threw her lines away, might have been a little tense and her mannerisms a little stilted, but not enough for an audience to notice. I knew I had been waiting nervously for that moment when she entered, and her serenity was reassuring.

It wasn't until we were three-quarters through the second act that it happened.

Flight Students Near Completion Of Their Courses at Airport Here

Marshall Johnston — Burdette McCool Tidioute — Harry Green

H. L. Johnson — Ned Perry, Sheffield

Jack Cogswell

Here are pictured six additional members of the present flight training class being conducted at the Warren Airport, under the Civilian Pilot Training program of the Civil Aeronautics Administration. Pictures of eight others were printed several days ago.

The third Civilian Pilot Training ground school started last Monday night. It is being held in the usual place at Jefferson street school. Hours are from 7-9 or 9-11. The enrollment will be completed by the end of the week and the class will be closed. There is room for several more applicants, but they must apply by the end of the week.

The ground school is under the capable management of Marshall F. Mathis. Mr. Mathis holds all the necessary ratings which entitles him to conduct classes for the government in the various classes such as civil air regulations, navigation, meteorology, parachutes, engines, theory of flight and instruments. He also holds a valid flight instructor's rating. Mr. Mathis has been conducting ground school classes for the King Air Service for the past five years and has been holding classes at St. Bonaventure College at Olean. He is a very competent instructor and has been getting wonderful results from his students. The grades made by the last class were the highest on record.

The present flight class is progressing rapidly. Two of Mr. King's students who have completed their dual cross country flights are Marshall Johnston and Ned Perry. The first cross country course is from Warren to Jamestown to Corry and home. The second course is to Corry, Oil City and back to Warren. The student must land at the airports and secure signatures that landings were made there. They fly the courses with their instructor and then they fly it alone. All in all, they receive six hours of cross country flying. They all look forward to the cross country flights as the high light of their training.

Jess Perry, Jr., who is one of Helen M. Walker's students, has finished his course. He has passed the flight test for his private pilot's license. He completed the course in six weeks.

William Swanson, who has been on leave, flew the cruiser to Buffalo and expected to leave from there for Boston. He has six months more in the navy to complete his hitch.

The new American naval attache in China, Major James McHugh, U. S. M. C., is the author of a textbook on the Chinese "Mandarin" dialect.

SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS MEETING AT RUSSELL HI

Russell, Aug. 8—At a meeting of the Pine Grove school board, held this week, bids for coal were opened, new teachers assigned, school bus drivers named and other matters of business transacted.

The bid of Joe Fitzgerald, of North Pine Grove, for supplying 75 or more tons of coal for the Russell school during the year was accepted by the board.

The resignation of Mrs. Hazel Bauer, teacher of the third grade, was accepted with regret, and Miss Margaret Lindquist was transferred from the fifth grade to the position vacated by Mrs. Bauer.

Miss Marie Brown, of Bear Lake, was elected teacher of the fifth grade and Lawrence Briggs was named substitute teacher for mathematics and science to take the place of Paul Butler, who was drafted into the army.

At an earlier meeting, Miss Masie Johnson, of Corry, was named seventh grade teacher.

Drivers named to transport pupils are as follows: Cable Hollow—Eric Hellman, 2 years; Bachupsley and Thompson Hill—Carl Hall-route—Eric Hellman, 2 years; Akeer, 1 year; Akeley Hollow and Egypt Hollow—Guy Leslie, 1 year; Fox Hill and Smith Hill—Burt Fox, 1 year; Norberg Road and Gouldtown—M. W. Nicholson, 1 year.

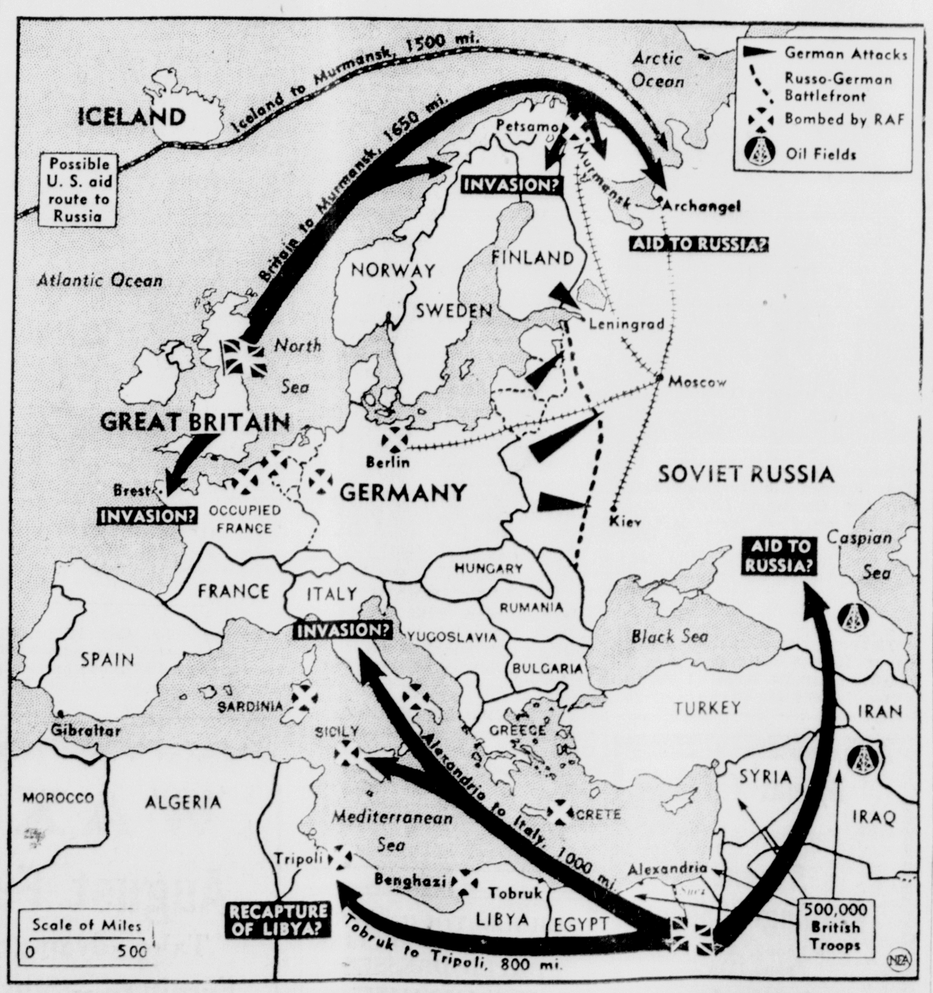
corridors, is conducted not from the Treasury, but from the Procurement division's own building over on the other side of the railroad tracks in southwest Washington. It's well off the tourist path, but it's a sight to see, nonetheless. It's a kind of half-office, half-warehouse building, presided over by Director Clifton E. Mack.

On one floor, you walk along a corridor till you come to a room where you think the architect must have gone nuts. The room is tiled, but with every kind of tile ever heard of, and no two square feet are alike. Nobody works in the room, for it would drive even a psychoanalyist screwy in two seconds. But whenever the Procurement division has to buy tile, they take the salesman to this Dali room and say, "Give us a price on No. 67."

Bids on government orders are opened every morning in the famous bid room, No. 798. It has a mail box of the street-corner variety at the back, and sharply at 10 a. m., the two men in charge of the room start opening bids and reading over a loud speaker system the offers submitted by competitors for government business. The room seats about 100 people, and, the salesmen and tradepaper reporters are usually on hand. Public reading of the bids is required by law, but before the contracts are let, they are tabulated by the Contract and Purchases section, which makes the awards.

Not all the savings of the Procurement division are measured in chicken feed. They saved a million bucks last year, on a $5 million order of fixtures for defense housing, but nobody paid much attention to it.

North Or South for Britain?



Great Britain, primed for an offensive move while Germany is busy in Russia, may strike in the Arctic or in the Mediterranean area in attempt to divert Hitler into another two-front war.

Dorcas Class Gives Member A Farewell

There was a large attendance, more than 40 members and guests, at the meeting and party held last evening by the Dorcas Class of the First Lutheran church.

Mrs. Mary Russell, who leaves soon to make her home in Philadelphia, was the guest of honor and was presented a group gift and best wishes.

Another guest was Sister Marie Freese, who told very interestingly of her work in the Dayton, O., Inner Mission.

Special music was provided by Donald and Harold Grosch, with Hawaiian selections, and Miss Lois Callard, pianist.

Refreshments were served from a table prettily centered with summer flowers and presided over by Mrs. Belle Chalmers, class secretary, and Mrs. Erma Eckardt, class treasurer. On the social committee were Mrs. Margaret Rapp, Mrs. Charlotte Turner, Miss Gertrude Keller, Mrs. Mary Rapp and Mrs. Frances Stover.

Plans were discussed for a corn and wiener roast for the September meeting of the group, the plans to be announced in detail at a later date.

St. Paul's Lutheran Women Visit Home

About 70 women of the St. Paul's Lutheran Missionary Society went to Jamestown, N. Y., on Thursday to entertain the 25 women who are guests at the old people's home.

The program opened with a song and scripture reading and prayer by Mrs. Alfred Jacobson. Mrs. J. A. Johnson and Mrs. Gust Carlson sang two duets, with accompaniments played by Mrs. Emil Jacobson.

Mrs. Hannah Leander, who is 87 years of age, pleased with a Swedish reading and Mrs. Carl Lundahl gave two lovely poems. After a group song, the benediction was recited in unison.

Refreshments were served in the garden-orchard at the home, where Rev. A. Holmberg, assistant pastor of the First Lutheran church of Jamestown, extended a greeting and gave a brief talk.

A nice sum was realized in a silver offering and this was presented to ehe home, together with a shower of groceries.

With Our Boys at Indiantown Gap

By Special Correspondence

BY F. L. FITZPATRICK

Indiantown Gap, Aug. 8—(AP)—Eighty-one soldiers of the 28th Division are scheduled to leave tonight for Jefferson barracks, Missouri, for training in the U. S. Army Air Corps—the first to respond to a new call for recruits from the Pennsylvania unit.

The men, all former National Guardsmen and Selectees, are volunteers for the air service who "signed up" in a drive started Wednesday to obtain 300—the quota for this post—for the Missouri station. The men were discharged from their various units of the "Iron Division" yesterday and reenlisted today under army regulations, it was disclosed by Captain Henry S. Matthews, Washington, D. C., post recruiting and personnel officer.

Capt. Matthews said the recruits will enter schools for specialized training in motors, fabrics, radio navigation, etc. Each of these courses, Capt. Matthews said, would cost about $500 in a civilian school. He said the 300 quota from this reservation will probably be attained by next Monday night, when an additional group of volunteers will leave for the Missouri school.

When the quota is filled for Jefferson barracks, recruiting will start for training posts at Biloxi, Miss., Wichita Falls, Tex., Panama and Puerto Rico, Capt. Matthews said.

Earlier this summer 450 soldiers of Pennsylvania's "Iron Division" were discharged to enlist in the air service, and approximately 50 additional men left to become army flying cadets.

From Scranton's 109th Infantry Regiment, alone, came 34 of the 81 who will leave tomorrow night for Missouri.

CHURCH REVIVALS

GOSPEL TABERNACLE

At 7:30 this evening a young people's rally of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, comprising societies from Bradford, Kane, Jamestown, Corry, Erie, Titusville and a number of smaller towns, will be held in the newly established Warren Gospel Tabernacle.

Special music, vocal and instrumental, by talented young people of the visiting churches will be a feature of the program. Participating will be Rev. Lawrence VanHorn, of the Kane Gospel Tabernacle and Rev. Milton Scripture, of Bradford Gaspel Tabernacle.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Gordon Abrams, of the Christian Missionary Alliance church of Corry.

The pastor, Rev. Harry Girts, extends a cordial invitation to both young and old of Warren and vicinity to attend this special service.

BODICE NEWS IN MATRON STYLE

Pattern 4864

By Anne Adams

Here's good news for the mature woman who likes the flattery of a surplice frock but doesn't want a matronly style. It's Pattern 4864 and an Anne Adams design that's sure to score a hit. The crossed-over neckline with its single low buttoning gives slimming lines through the bust, and its effectiveness is increased by yokes that square off into tapering panels to the very waist. An expertly slenderizing treatment that's carried out still further by a narrow front-tying or all-around buckled belt and a simple skirt. The sides of the bodice are soft and gathered under the yokes; the sleeves are short, three-quarter or long. Why not make this dress in a gay print for right now; in a sheer wool for Fall and Winter wear?

Pattern 4864 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36, 3 yards 39 inch.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

LOCAL INTEREST IN MEXICO CITY NORMAL

Many friends here will be pleased at the news that Hubert Zwald, well known former Warren pianist, is a member of Dr. LeRoy B. Campbell's party for the summer normal being conducted in August and September in Mexico City, Mexico.

Dr. Campbell writes that the party was received with dignity and enthusiasm and that he made the response to the welcoming speech extended by the faculty of the university where sessions are being held. His first lecture, he reports, was on "The Source and Development of Mexican Art" and was given in the most beautiful art room in the city, the Del Robia room of the Retorna Hotel. Headquarters of the party while in Mexico City are at the Hotel Marie Christina.

Family Reunions

CARR FAMILY

The Carr family, consisting of descendants of Hiram and Abigail Carr, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ludwick at Lander Sunday for the annual reunion. There were 93 relatives and friends present from Akron, O.; Frewsburg, Kiantone and Kennedy, N. Y.; Erie, Meadville, Warren, Youngsville and Pittsfield.

A picnic dinner was served cafeteria style on the lawn and at the business meeting, the following officers were elected: President, Dorothy Forman, Meadville; vice president, Gerald Mason, Meadville; secretary, Leola Darling, Kennedy. The location of the 1942 gathering will be the home of Oscar Bolin at Kiantone.

The afternoon was spent with contests, quoits and a ball game. Ice cream and cake were served late in the day.

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY

Eight thousand miles may seem a long distance to travel, but stopping off at several cities a day and meeting the bridge players in those cities, you don't notice the distance. At least, that is the way Mrs. McKenney, Waldemar von Zedtwitz, and I found our recent transcontinental bridge tour.

Morgan Howard, vice president of the American Contract Bridge League, a former resident of Pittsburgh, and now located in Los Angeles, came up to meet us in San Francisco. While I did not have a chance to play with him in the tournament, I kibitzed a few hands he played with Mrs. Howard. He likes to put over a psychic once in a while. I thought he did a pretty good job on today's hand.

Of course, after Mrs. Howard's opening bid, Morgan (North) decided to go to at least four hearts. But to bid four hearts right over the double might simply incite the non-vulnerable opponents to bid four spades or five diamonds. In fact, this was precisely the effect of the jump when it was tried at other tables. So Howard decided to try to bluff the opponents out of bidding spades, which might be their best suit.

A bid of one spade would still let the opponents in cheaply, so he bid two spades, a bid that he knew Mrs. Howard would not pass. Both opponents were now content to wait and let North and South get into trouble. Thus they were talked out of their game and actually doubled four hearts, which of course was laid down.

Ancient ox horns, blown as war trumpets, were forerunners of all the horns of modern bands and orchestras

NEVER TOO OLD

Never too old to fish was the spirit illustrated by John Verguson, 99, in applying for a fishing license at Emporium. Verguson, Cameron county's oldest resident, said, "I want to do a little bass and pickerel fishing before the season is over. If I can't get a ride to the right stream, I'll walk."

WAIVES HEARING

Louis G. Jackson, Southwest township, was arraigned last evening before Justice of the Peace T. Richard Evans on a charge of fraud, resulting from his allegedly receiving relief illegally. He pleaded not guilty, was placed under $500 bail, which was furnished, and waived hearing for the September term of court.

CARP ANGLERS HEED

Though it is a good thing to clean the river of carp, it is asked by authorities that those taken from Conewango creek, or the Allegheny river near residential sections be buried or otherwise disposed of, rather than merely being left upon the river banks. Unless co-operation is given, more effective steps will be taken, it was stated.

HELD IN THEFT

A 23-year-old Titusville man was held in jail there today, charged with robbery in the theft of $62.58 from the Titusville Eagles Club. Police said the man admitted hiding in a lavatory shortly before the club closed last night and taking the money and several packages of cigarettes from the grill. Police, who saw him leave, apprehended him at his home.

SEEK ASSAILANTS

Erie police today hunted two men a 42-year-old Erie woman said forced her into a car a block from the downtown section last night, taped her mouth and then beat her during a two-hour ride about the city. Chief of Police Christoph said the woman, Mrs. Margaret Hodnett, was found injured about four miles from the spot where she said she had been forced into the car. Her mouth bore the marks of tape but she was too hysterical to be questioned and was taken to a hospital.

MIGHT TRY IT HERE

In the interest of national defense, Mayor Charles R. Barber, of Erie, asked motorists not to blow their horns too frequently. The official said many night-shift workers in defense industries have been unable to sleep during the day because of unnecessary horn-blowing. He warned that if his request is disregarded, arrests will be made.

PLAN ADDITION

Raymond A. Freeburg, Jamestown architect, has been engaged by the Corry school district to prepare preliminary plans for a two-room addition to the Junior High School there, for which funds will be sought from the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works. The cost is expected to be between $12,000 and $15,000.

MAY TURN IN TAGS

Motorists may be required to turn in their 1941 license plates in order to obtain 1942 tags because of the shortage of sheet steel, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington. The Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply today requested states to impose such a requirement, and said that steel was being allocated for the 1942 plates only because the time was too short to enable states to find substitutes.

BARBER SUFFOCATES

George R. Spencer, 59, Titusville barber, died of suffocation in a fire of unknown origin which swept through a five-room apartment over a laundry in Titusville today. His body was found by a door leading to a central hall, indicating he was overcome when trying to escape from the apartment which was completely burned out by the blaze. At the time of the fire, Spencer's wife was in Titusville City Hospital, where she underwent an operation last week.

Lopez And Dietz Lead Pittsburgh To Sixth Straight Win

Cards Back On Top As Cooper Returns; Tigers Beat Feller

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals are back on top of the National League see-saw today, but their position in the standings is not as important as the fact that Mort Cooper is back with his pitching magic.

Until he developed elbow trouble in June, the 27-year-old right-hander figured to be the ace of Billy Southworth's pitching corps.

Yesterday came the real test when Cooper was sent out against the Cincinnati Reds and pitched and batted the Cardinals to a 3-2 11-inning victory that put St. Louis in front of the idle Brooklyn Dodgers again by just a shade.

Cooper held Cincinnati scoreless till the seventh in a pitching duel with Bucky Walters, whom the Cards cut for a run in the second. Then they struggled scoreless again till the 11th, when Johnny Mize singled, Enos Slaughter doubled, and Estel Crabtree and Cooper singled for two runs.

In the only other National League game, the Pittsburgh Pirates took a 4-3 decision over the Chicago Cubs on Al Lopez' homer with two out in the ninth. Sparked by Hank Leiber's circuit smash the Cubs scored three times in the second inning to drive Ken Heintzelman from the box, but Lloyd Dietz held them scoreless the rest of the way. Pittsburgh capitalized on their seven hits off Jake Mooty. It was the Pirates' sixth straight triumph and their 18th in 21 games.

The New York Yankees dropped a 9-5 verdict to the Boston Red Sox for their fifth loss in seven contests. Ted Williams hit his 22nd homer and two singles to lead Boston's 12-hit attack on three New York pitchers.

The defeat did not reduce the Yankees' American League lead, however, for Detroit downed Bob Feller and the Cleveland Indians, 4-3, in 13 innings. Feller struck out 13, but walked 11 and in the eighth inning forced in one run with a pass when the bases were loaded.

The Washington Senators sent the once-hopeful Philadelphia Athletics crashing to their fifth straight defeat, 5-4, on six-hit pitching by Sid Hudson and Walt Masterson and an attack led by Catcher Al Early, who supplied two doubles and two singles. Sam Chapman hit a homer and triple for all the A's runs.

The Chicago White Sox went on a hitting spree in the last four innings of a night game, pounding out 17 hits to beat the St. Louis Browns, 11-1.

NORTH WARREN TRIUMPHS OVER WARREN EAGLES

The State Hospital beat the Warren Eagles last night 6 to 5, but they were awarded three runs on a platter by wild pitches, and a fourth run scored via an error.

The Eagles jumped off to a 2-0 lead which they held into the third canto, but then loose ball afield saw them fall apart and lose a game that might just as easily have gone the other way.

The State Hospital had only four hits and made three errors before the six inning encouter was over, while the Eagles had five hits and only one error.

However, with the bases loaded in the third, Bob Baker, Eagles hurler, sent three men home on consecutive wild deliveries.

Except for that little streak of wildness, which settled the contest, Baker did a fine job on the mound.

"Rabbit" Swanson used two young rookies, Weaver and Dick Kifer. The latter pitched shutout ball from the third inning on, and showed quite well for a young tosser with little experience behind him.

The two teams may clash again next week in an evening tilt, and the Eagles will play a rubber game with the Marconi Club next week also. A mixture of Marconi and Eagles players meet the Hospital Saturday.

NO-HIT GAMES TURNED IN BY MINOR LEAGUES

Savannah, Ga., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Twenty-two-year old Joe Page of Harmanville, Pa., playing his first year in class B baseball, pitched a no-hit, no-run game last night as Augusta, Ga., defeated Savannah 4 to 0 in a South Atlantic League game.

Page, who played last year at Butler, Pa., pitched to only 25 official batters and retired the side in order five times. He has won eight and lost 10 with Augusta this season.

Scranton, Aug. 8—(AP)—Thirty years ago "Smokey Joe" Wood smoked a baseball past the St. Louis Browns for a no-hit, 5-0 shutout for the Boston Red Sox in the American League.

Last night "Smokey Joe" sat in the stands at Scranton, Pa., and watched his son duplicate that feat for the Scranton Miners against the Albany Senators in the Class A Eastern League.

It was father-like son as Joe Wood, Jr., who was graduated from Yale University two months ago and joined Scranton a month ago, set the Senators down.

Only 29 batters faced the 25-year-old righthander who said after his masterpiece: "I was just lucky." The young mound star fanned five, walked three and retired the first 11 men to face him. Only one Albany player got as far as second base and only four balls were hit into the outfield.

MUST ENTER IN NET TOURNEY BY TOMORROW NOON

Up until noon tomorrow entries will be accepted for this community's city-wide tennis tourney, the first of its kind in several years, play in which begins next Tuesday.

Only the better tennis players in the town and surroundings seem to have taken interest, but it looks as though one good tournament among class A players will be in the offing.

At this writing today there are eight entered in the Class A men's singles. The Class B awaits its first entrant and the women just don't have a large enough number, according to reports, to make a tourney.

Those who have entered in the men's singles are: Frank Irvine, last year's county champion, who'll be seeded No. 1; Harry Conroy, Jr., runner-up to Irvine last year and seeded No. 2; and Johnny Anderson, Curtis Goodwin, George Brown, Harry Conroy, W. H. Smith, Dick Ross, and Stan Korb, all to be seeded.

Opening round matches will be scheduled over the weekend, announced in the Times-Mirror on Monday, with the opening matches scheduled for Tuesday.

There is no entry fee, and prizes will be awarded the winner and runner-up.

RED JACKETS TO START PRACTICE MONDAY EVENING

"Pete" Fanaritis yesterday afternoon issued the call for all Red Jacket candidates to be present at the initial practice to be held at Beaty Field Monday evening at six o'clock.

All of last year's players who have made plans to play again are expected to be on hand, and any other football players in this vicinity, including Jamestown, Kane, Bradford, Corry, Titusville, etc., which would like a trial are asked to be on hand.

There are lots of berths open yet before the twenty-two man squad which the Jackets plan to carry will be filled. Dr. Reese will coach the club and will choose the players who show the most promise in practice.

No strenuous workouts will begin for four or five days, at least, but it is important that every player desiring to be a candidate for the team be present to every practice when it's called if at all possible.

The Red Jackets mean to be hustlers this season, and with a team that probably won't carry too much weight, must work on a speedy ground attack and capable aerial offense.

Plans now are to the effect that the opening game will be played early in September.

LAST GAME IN CITY SOFTBALL LOOP TONIGHT

The curtain drops on a successful City League softball campaign tonight with the final game in the second half being played between the K. of C. and Recreation Center.

Last night's game between the Elks and St. Joseph's was forfeited by the latter club, but made no difference in the race for the second half championship.

At the present time the Caseys are pacing the way, but a victory tonight for the Recreation Center would put them half a game in front, though then the Caseys could demand a playoff of all contests rained out.

The Caseys and St. Joe's were rained out twice during the last half, the other two clubs, Elks and R. C., only once apiece.

After the second half is cleared up there's still a little debate over the first half. The Recreation Center led all clubs, but a couple of other teams have chances and must play off a postponed game there also. But they will settle one thing at a time, and tonight it decides whether or not the Caseys will claim the second half toga.

TEAMWORK AND SPIRIT IS RECIPE OF PITTSBURGH'S SIZZLING BALL CLUB; RED JACKETS GO TO WORK ON MONDAY

The Bucking Bucs down Pittsburgh way, who only a month a seemed to be sailing a stormy sea in a moth-eaten tub, today ha borrowed one of the government's new destroyers from the "mode design" campaign, and are shelling every club they lay their han on in the National League. It's been a different Pirate crew t season than Pittsburgh fans have laid eyes upon in years. In t first place, they didn't start out in jack rabbit fashion when the su mer program began, but they stayed back of the pack (first divisio ers), like Whirlaway in a race, until they reached the backstret and now the Bucs are coming. In the past forty days they've be the hottest club in the National League, and not in recent yea have the Buccaneers had such a sustained drive nor did they sta so early in August, when they're generally at their height. Usua their best ball is played the last half of August, and then they f up their tents when fall comes breezing along. But with a sizzli crew like Frankie Frisch owns this year, they don't have to wor at this point about being cold when the days grow shorter.

What is responsible for the grand march can't be pointed out naming any individual player. All the Pirates have had a hand the pot and this time they haven't spoiled the broth. But if one pla er should be pointed to as a leading pacer, then we'd nominate Vin DiMaggio, brother of Damaging Joe, stellar performer on the Ame can League's national guard, who's home runs and other needed h have helped the team win steadily and play .800 ball the last mont Van Robays, Vaughan, Fletcher, Elliott, Stu Martin and Lee Han ley have been rapping steadily also. And then another improveme on the Bucs has been the pitchers. None of them stand out alo but all are winning successively these days, with "Rip" Sewell a Ken Heintzelman in their best form. As stated above, though, no i dividual player is responsible for the Buccos' climb. The way t corner dopes it out, the Bucs are winning because they believe a are proving that fighting spirit is at least 50% of any baseball gam

The Red Jackets go to work Monday in ironing out a few crea in their joints, and limbering up for another gala grid season, whi if present plans go through, may surpass the best season ever know in this community on a football field. With a twenty-two man squ the Jackets should be ready to mix with almost any semi-pro cl you can lay your finger on. With more money in circulation, mo people working, and better living conditions all around, the crow should soar to greater heights along with the team. Last year t Jackets won seven of nine games, losing only to the Akron Awnin and the Buffalo Eldridge Club. The game against the Awnings w played in Akron and it is expected the Jackets will return there f another match this fall. Buffalo should be on the home schedule on more. They're Warren's greatest nemesis and have always been "jinx" club when the Red Jackets have played against them. T boys will start out on Monday evening at six o'clock at Beaty Fie and grid fans can take their first squints at the early candidates w report at that time.

Rep. Fish Attacks Measure

(From Page One)

Representative Sabath (D-Ill) deplored attempts by anyone to foment "disunity" in the country and asserted:

"I'm against war; I'm against sending the boys across; that's why I'm in favor of this legislation."

Fish argued that new army officers were being trained in three months and soldiers should be trained in less time.

"The four Roosevelt boys, in defiance of the democratic principles of the draft, became officers without training, but they are exceptions to the rule of no favoritism and no politics in the army," Fish said.

Rep. Halleck (R-Ind), taking cognizance of reports that military officials had information to justify the service extension, asked:

"What is this information that we're not permitted to have? Why aren't we entitled to know the facts? The only people being kept in the dark are the congress and the country.

"Is that because a real case cannot be made?"

The Senate approved the 18-month extension by a 45-to-30 tally late yesterday, providing $10-a-month more pay for service beyond one year, and House leaders promptly ordered an unusual forenoon session today with the determination to get to a vote by Monday at the latest.

Manifesting no misgivings as to how the House vote would go, Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the military committee predicted that the chamber would disregard the Senate's 18-month time limitation.

"I'm getting sick and tired of this question of whether we are going to defend our country for six more months, or 12 more months or 18 more months," May told reporters. "I believe in national defense without any time limit."

The heart of the Senate measure was the provision that would add a maximum of 18 months additional military duty to the present "hitches" of all Selectees, National Guardsmen, Reserves, and regular army enlisted men. All are now subject to only one year's service, except the regulars who sign up for three years.

One House threat was the announced intention of a Republican group, headed by Rep. Short (Mo.), to fight for the complete exemption of Selectees from additional duty, and limit the service extension to regulars, Reservists and Guardsmen.

House leaders, however, exhibited no great worry about the forecasts of the rocky legislative road ahead.

The Senate reached its decision on the legislation after seven days of debate.

better equipped for defense now than in 1939."

Domei, the official Japanese news agency, asserted that the British government had secretly approached Thailand for use of military bases there. Simultaneously, the official Thai radio said in a broadcast from Bangkok:

"Thailand is extremely grateful to those offering her protection, but begs to decline same with thanks."

Pennsy Freight Made Up in Erie Figures in Crash at Baltimore

Baltimore, Aug. 8—(AP)—One man was killed and the main freight line of the Pennsylvania Railroad between Baltimore and Philadelphia was blocked today by a switching accident in which a locomotive, a tender and seven cars of a 116-car doubleheader ore train were wrecked in the Bay View freight yards.

The dead man was Engineer Frank C. Weimeister, 60, of Baltimore, who was trapped in the cab of the overturned locomotive. Other members of the crew escaped injury.

The accident occurred as the train, made up in Erie, Pa., and bound for the steel mills at Sparrows Point, switched from the main line to the spur. The leading locomotive passed through the switch but the doubleheader coupling broke, air brakes were applied and the second engine failed to negotiate the switch.

the lumber business and farming and resided for some time at Nebraska, on Tionesta creek. In 1898 he removed to Hickory township and purchased a farm on Church Hill, which he yet owned. For some years past he resided in East Hickory with the family of his son, Glen K. Klinestiver. For 27 years until a few years ago he had been collector of taxes for Hickory township and he had served one term as associate judge of Forest county, being elected on the Republican ticket.

Mr. Klinestiver was twice married. His first marriage was with Miss Susan A. Allison, of Nebraska, Jan. 14, 1888, who died July 21, 1903. Of this marriage three sons survive: Merton G., of Warren; Allison E. and Glen K., of East Hickory. His second marriage was on Jan. 1, 1907, with Miss Mattie Foy, of Marienville, who died May 25, 1932. There are two stepsons, Leo Foy, of New York City, and Chester Foy, of Warren.

Surviving also are the following brothers and sisters: H. T. Klinestiver, of Tionesta; Miss Florence E. Klinestiver, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Emma K. Secor, of Sheffield; George H. Klinestiver, of Warren; and F. R. Klinestiver, of Tionesta; also two granddaughters and a grandson, Elanore Klinestiver, of Warren, Ruth Klinestiver, of Philadelphia, and Donald K. Klinestiver, of East Hickory.

Funeral services in his memory will be conducted at his late home at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with Rev. H. Stevenson, of Tidioute, pastor of the Methodist churches at East and West Hickory, officiating. Interment will be made in the family plot in the East Hickory cemetery. Mr. Klinestiver was a member of the Free Methodist church at East Hickory.

BIG PASSENGER LINER DAMAGED BY "ENEMY"

London, Aug. 8—(AP)—The White Star liner Georgic has been damaged by "enemy" action, the Ministry of Information disclosed today.

There were no troops aboard the 27,759-ton passenger liner at the time, the announcemen said, and all crewmen were reported safe except the chief barkeeper.

Neither the time nor the place where the damage occurred was disclosed.

LEADERS SHIFT INDIFFERENTLY

BY VICTOR EUBANK

New York, Aug. 8—(AP)—Specialties accounted for the new feeble rallying flurries in today's stock market while most leaders shifted indifferently over a narrowly irregular route.

Some buying cropped up on the theory a comeback might be in the offing after the nine-session stalemate. The majority of gains that appeared were in minor fractions and declines were plentiful near the final hour. Dealings were relatively sluggish, transfers being at the rate of about 500,000 shares.

HOLD THIRD MAN IN FRAUD CASE AT SHEFFIELD

Sheffield, Aug. 8—A third arrest in connection with the cullet or scrap glass fraud case at the Pennsylvania Bottle Company factory, this place, was made here Wednesday when Harry Nelson, 60, weighmaster for the T. V. Railway, was taken in custody by local Police Chief Sanford Secor.

Nelson was arrested following his return home Wednesday from the Warren General Hospital, where he had been a patient for two days recovering from the effect of an alleged overdose of drugs. He pleaded guilty to a charge of "cheating by fraudulent pretenses" on arraignment before Edwin Anderson, local justice, and was released on $1,000 bond for appearance before the county court.

Previously arrested on the same charge were John W. Hollis, 26, of 3333 Chapin St., Erie, cullet dealer, who has been trucking scrap glass to the local factory for the past few years, and James Suppa, 59, of Sheffield, who until a few days ago was employed in the cullet department at the factory. Both are free on $1,000 bond for appearance before the county court.

Hollis was arrested in Erie on Wednesday, July 30, by Erie police at the request of local Chief Secor. Brought to Sheffield that evening, Hollis was arraigned before Justice Anderson the following day. He entered a plea of not guilty and, unable to post the bond, he was committed to the county jail in Warren overnight. He was bailed out August 1.

Suppa was arrested here last Saturday by Chief Secor. He pleaded guilty on arraignment before Justice Anderson.

A growing shortage in the cullet inventory at the glass plant led to the investigation which resulted in the arrest of the three men. The investigation revealed that through the medium of falsified weigh slips turned in for the glass brought, or purportedly brought to the factory by Hollis the company had paid several thousands of dollars for scrap glass it never received.

Incoming cullet is weighed on the T. V. scales. The Erie trucker contrived to arrive at the scales at the time Hollis was on duty as weighmaster, generally at an early morning hour when few or no persons were about. Suppa, who helped unload the glass at the factory, collaborated in the "scheme" by not reporting the discrepencies between weights of the loads and the weights marked on the slips. Hollis, paid by the company on the basis of the weights marked on the slips allegedly shared the ill-gotten profits with the other two men.

It was revealed that the fraudulent practice has been going on since December, 1939. Until comparatively recently, however, the "overweights" marked on the slips were comparatively small and the shortage in the stock of cullet therefore only recently became noticeably apparent, an official of the firm said.

Announcement and confirmation of the arrests were made and details of the fraud scheme were divulged here Wednesday evening by Chief Secor and William Gallagher, manager of the glass plant, at a conference with representatives of the press.

The charges lodged against each of the three men arrested carries a maximum penalty of $5,000 fine and 5 years imprisonment. The minimum is optional with the court.

MOSCOW BRANDS GERMAN CLAIMS "ARABIAN FAIRY TALES"

APITAL OF UKRAINE URROUNDED HITLER OMMUNIQUE INSISTS

Adolf Hitler's high command reported today that German troops ng deep into the lower Ukraine had annihilated a Red army force ed southeast of Uman, 125 miles south of Kiev, capturing more 30,000 prisoners and the supreme commander of the Russian Sixth y.

The Soviet high command, officially labeling Hitler's claims of vast esses as "Arabian fairy tales," declared that the 48-day-old struggle cost the Germans more than 1,500,000 men, against 600,000 Soviet s, and termed the blitzkrieg a complete failure.

The Russians said the Germans lost 6,000 tanks, compared to their losses of 5,000; 8,000 cannon, compared to 7,000; and 6,000 planes, pared to 4,000.

Unofficial Nazi reports said Kiev itself, the Ukraine capital, had surrounded. But the high command report indicated the main an thrust was directed at cutting off the Black Sea port of Odessa, 140 miles below Uman.

In the north, the Nazi high command said German columns driving rd Leningrad had captured Wesenberg, 68 miles southeast of the Czarist capital, and penetrated to the Gulf of Finland.

If true, this would indicate that the Russian-held capital of Estonia, nn, is cut off by land. It would mean, too, that the Russian Baltic was in jeopardy from German guns pressing toward its big base ronstadt.

Meanwhile, the possibility arose that Russian warplanes had ed Berlin during the night for the first time in the war.

The Germans reported that hostile planes attacked the capital overnight fo rthe 80th time, killing some civilians and inflicting minor property damage. London officials said the RAF had not raided Berlin.

From their nearest bases, either in Estonia or in the Smolensk sector, Soviet planes would have to fly more than 600 miles to raid Berlin—1,200 miles round trip.

The first anniversary of the opening of the battle of Britain, when German and British planes clashed in the greatest air battles the world has seen, found the RAF carrying on its own day and night offensive against occupied France and western Germany while the Germans directed small forces against Britain.

London said the main objectives of last night's raids were Essen, Hamm and Dortmund.

German planes bombed a few places in eastern England and Scotland causing some injuries and damage. Germans said five British planes were shot down over England during the night.

From Ankara came reports that Germany had warned Iran she would sever diplomatic relations with this strategic Middle East country if German nationals were expelled as Britain has asked.

In Berlin, a Nazi spokesman denied the Ankara report, asserting that Iran had already rejected British demands for the ousting of Germans and that the Reich had every reason to be satisfied with Iran's attitude.

The Far East crisis boiled along in a torrent of charges and counter-charges.

Australia's prime minister Robert G. Menzies declared his country "stands with bated breath in a most vital hour of her history," while the Japanese bitterly accused the United States, Great Britain, China and the Dutch East Indies of clamping a military-economic ring around the empire.

Japan's authoritative naval expert, Lieut.-Commander Tota Ishimaru, said Manchukuo, China, Indo-China and Thailand had already joined Japan's "co-prosperity sphere," and he suggested:

"Getting the Indies oil and Malay rubber is a bit difficult, but it should be a cinch if we tackle the problem after the German fashion".

Prime Minister Menzies proclaimed solemnly that "the war has taken an ominous turn for Australia" in the past week's developments, "but we are immeasurably

Debate Opens in House on Extension Bill

CHANGES IN TAX SETUP ARE ASKED BY MORGENTHAU

Secretary of the Treasury Tells Senate Finance Committee Revenue from House-Approved Bill Should be Increased to $3,500,000,000

HEARINGS LAUNCHED

Washington, Aug. 8—(AP)—Advocating an "all-out tax program for defense," Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau asked congress today to tax millions of additional persons with small incomes by cutting personal income tax exemptions and to stiffen other taxes on married couples, corporations and others.

He told the Senate finance committee that the revenue from the House approved tax bill should be increased from its present $3,206,200,000 to "at least" $3,500,000,000. He hinted strongly he would like much more.

Reading a 15-page statement, the treasury head asked a dozen changes to boost the yield of the tax bill, but said his proposed new taxes on "millions of people with low incomes" should not be attempted "unless we reach in other places where ability to pay is escaping its fair share of taxes."

He explained that this applied to married couples and corporations, particularly.

Morgenthau gave no figures on how deeply he thought personal exemptions should be cut. Only last year, however, the exemption for heads of families was cut from $2,500 to $2,000 and the exemption for single persons was reduced from $1,000 to $800.

Suggestions have been heard recently that the new exemptions might be $1,500 for married couples and $700 for single persons.

The Senate finance committee opened hearings today on the $3,206,200,000 tax bill with members expecting Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to lead off with recommendations for extensive increases in the House-approved measure.

Informed committeemen said the cabinet official doubtless would urge that the Senate raise the total by at least $323,000,000, which was the amount of prospective revenue lost when the House deleted a clause which would have required husbands and wives to file joint income tax returns.

WALKOUTS HALT DEFENSE WORK IN TWO PLANTS

By the Associated Press

Several hundred AFL members walked out on $100,000,000 worth of defense work at the Curtiss-Wright Corporation propeller division plant at Caldwell, N. J., today while a CIO strike continued to hold up $493,000,000 of naval and merchant shipbuilding at Kearny, N. J.

The latter case may be referred directly to President Roosevelt for action, a defense official indicated.

At Caldwell, a company official said the plant's entire production on defense orders was imperiled. The plant employs several thousand workers.

Those who walked off their jobs were members of the AFL-International Association of Machinists. John Hart, company spokesman, said the workers "asked more money, but have made no specific demands and have not presented their request in writing."

The AFL union yesterday lost a National Labor Relations Board election for collective bargaining agent at Curtiss-Wright's Caldwell and Clifton plants. Propeller Craft, an independent union, won, 1,094 to 526.

The walk off occurred shortly before William S. Knudsen, director of the Office of Production Management, was scheduled to inspect the plant. The workers who walked off strolled quietly about the outer walls of the plant and attempted no picketing.

The Kearny strike may be referred to the president, said Frank Graham, acting chairman of the Defense Mediation Board, unless 18,000 employes of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Company go back to work soon.

In a previous dispute which the Mediation Board referred to the White House, President Roosevelt ordered troops to reopen the North American Aviation Company's California plant.

Premier Sends Body of Plane Accident Victim to Home Town for Burial After War Hero's Funeral Procession is Held at Ancient Pisa

75,000 JAM STREETS

Pisa, Italy, Aug. 8—(AP)—Premier Mussolini sent the body of his son, Bruno, to Predappio, Il Duce's home town, for burial after a war hero's funeral procession today through the flower-strewn streets of this ancient city.

Arriving in the darkened room of the local Fascist headquarters where Bruno lay in state with two companions who died in an air crash yesterday, Mussolini paused long beside the open casket.

Those in the room said afterward "his severe face expressed the emotional pride of his immense sorrow."

Bruno's mother, Donna Rachele; his 23-yera-old widow, and his sister, Countess Edda Ciano, heavily veiled, stood aside when the coffin was taken out on the shoulders

REP. FISH ATTACKS MEASURE

With Administration Leaders Standing Firm for Indefinite Service in Preference to 18-Month Maximum Voted by Senate, Unusual Forenoon Session is Ordered in Effort to Reach Vote Monday

THREAT IS MADE BY REPUBLICAN FACTION

Washington, Aug. 8—(AP)—Rep. Cox (D-Ga) told the house today it should approve indefinite extension of service for all men in uniform "because war is inevitable".

"The public has given overwhelming support to the president in what he has done and if this means war, there is little reason to complain," the Georgia congressman told the attentive house as it opened seven hours of debate on its service extension bill.

Earlier Rep. Fish (R-NY) had attacked the measure as part of a "gigantic conspiracy" he said was designed to involve this country in wars all over the globe.

Fish catalogued Secretary of War Stimson, who has asked for an indefinite extension of the service of Selectees, Reservists and National Guardsmen, as "our leading warmaker."

The senate has approved an 18-month extension, but administration leaders in the house still are holding out for the indeterminate term of duty.

STRIKE OF LUMBER HAULERS IS SETTLED

Uniontown, Aug. 8.—(AP)—CIO lumber workers and truck drivers, on strike since July 21, began returning to work today on the strength of an agreement signed with some lumber operators giving the CIO United Construction Workers exclusive bargaining rights.

The compact was made last night at a truce meeting of all parties concerned. The Tri-State Lumbermen's Association first agreed to scrap a contract signed last week with the Independent Tri-State Truckers and Lumbermen's union and deal instead with the CIO.

Negotiations for a wage scale will start Monday.

AGED MAN DROWNS IN RIVER

Jacob L. Klinestiver, 76, Well Known Resident of East Hickory, Loses Life in Allegheny Near That Place While Fishing Thursday Afternoon; Tragedy is Discovered and Body Recovered Few Hours Later

FUNERAL SERVICES TO BE HELD SATURDAY

(Special to the Times-Mirror)

Tionesta, Aug. 7.—Jacob L. Klinestiver, 76, of East Hickory, one of the best known citizens of that community, lost his life by drowning in the Allegheny river near that place about 5 o'clock this afternoon while fishing.

Mr. Klinestiver had gone fishing about 12:30 in the afternoon and was wading on a swift riffle about 30 rods above the summer home of Mrs. N. P. Wheeler, Jr., on the east side of the river. He was last seen there about 4:30 o'clock and it is thought that he may have slipped on the slippery stones in the bottom of the river or was overcome by illness and fell into the water.

Shortly before 9 o'clock, Robert Anderson, aged 12, of East Hickory, who was out in a boat, saw what he thought was a turtle's head in the water and on rowing up to the object saw that it was a cane which Mr. Klinestiver kept tied to his bet and then saw a body in the water. He went for help and Miss Margaret Smith, of Deposit, N. Y., a niece of Mrs. Wheeler, went with him. They found the body of Mr. Klinestiver which had floated a short distance down the river and lodged against a rock in about four feet of water. They notified the boy's grandfather, J. A. Anderson, Sr., who recovered the body from the river.

Mr. Klinestiver, who had been almost totally blind for nearly 10 years, being able to distinguish only between daylight and darkness, used the cane, which was the direct cause of his body being found so soon after the accident, when he walked along the pavement of the road to feel his way along the edge.

Coroner E. W. Pifer, of Tionesta, who was called, decided that an inquest was not necessary and brought the body to the Haslet funeral home in Tionesta to be prepared for burial.

Jacob Lawrence Klinestiver was a son of the late George and Dorcas Lawrence Klinestiver and was born at Beaver Valley, Forest county, Nov. 8, 1864. He was educated in the common schools of the county and attended Allegheny College for one term. He followed

Gov. James To Name Commission To Handle Paroles By October 1

New System, Authorized in Legislation Signed Thursday, Becomes Effective in June, 1942, Will Not Include Juvenile Cases

$400,000 APPROPRIATED

Harrisburg, Aug. 8—(AP)—A five-man commission to handle Pennsylvania's new parole system—leaving only first degree murder cases to the pardon board which has issued paroles in the past—will be named by Governor James by October 1.

The new system, authorized in legislation signed by the governor yesterday, becomes effective in June, 1942. The ensuing months will be devoted to the shift over. The commission will have $400,000 with which to administer the sweeping new plan.

The commission will take over all paroles, except for prisoners sentenced to two years or less and first degree murder cases. It will advise the pardon board on the murder cases as well. The pardon board consists of the lieutenant governor, who serves as chairman, the attorney general, secretary of state and secretary of internal affairs.

Juvenile cases will be left to the local courts.

JAPAN CHARGES ENCIRCLEMENT EFFORTS MADE

Spokesman Accuses United States, Britain, China and The Netherlands East Indies With Forming Offense Cordon Around Nation

LONDON UNPERTURBED

Tokyo, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Japan has recognized officially military, political and economic encirclement of her empire by the United States, Great Britain, China and The Netherlands East Indies, Koh Ishii, cabinet information bureau spokesman, said today.

Ishii's blunt statement was the first government comment charging the formation of a cordon around Japan. Before today the Japanese press alone had been sharply critical of reported American, British and Chinese preparations to forestall any possible Japanese military expansion beyond French Indo-China and had asserted the Americans, British, Chungking Chinese and Dutch Colonials were bent on offensive encirclement of Japan.

When Ishii's attention was called to a statement by British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden that preparations were being made at Singapore for any eventuality in Malaya or southern Asia, he said:

"Why is it necessary for the British to make such preparations? It is reported the British

HULL REPLIES TO STORIES OF AXIS

Washington, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull said today that Germany was looking with longing eyes to the western hemisphere for further conquest.

He asserted also that Japan alone was responsible for an encirclement of itself in the Pacific.

These comments were made by Hull at his press conference on statements by official spokesmen in Berlin and Tokyo.

The Berlin sources said a German campaign was to be launched to expose what they called ruthless power politics by President Roosevelt in Latin America.

The Japanese spokesman asserted that Japan was encircled by the United States, Britain, China and the Netherlands.

Hull described the Berlin claim as a transparent piece of propaganda which he said would not deceive, much less be seriously considered, by any country in this hemisphere.

It came, he added, from a group representing a government which had ruthlessly seized some 15 countries in Europe and was looking with longing eyes to this hemisphere for further conquest.

Famous Side-Wheeler Goes to Scrap Heap

Cleveland, Aug. 8.—(AP)—One of the Great Lakes' most famous side-wheelers headed for the scrap heap today, her metal to be remelted and made into war defense materials.

The 43-year-old city of Erie was sold to the Otis Steel Co., by the liquidating Cleveland & Buffalo Transit Co.

She had been moored here since 1939 when the company discontinued its passenger and freight service between Cleveland and Buffalo. Built in Wyandotte, Mich., the boat had a 316 foot keel.

Once the finest and fastest ship on the lakes, the City of Erie's most famous exploit was winning a widely-publicized race from Cleveland to Erie with the steamer Pashmoo of Detroit in 1901.

COMMITTEE APPROVES ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

Washington, Aug. 8—(AP)—The House rivers and harbors committee approved today the $285,000,000 St. St. Lawrence seaway and the $160,000,000 Florida ship canal for incomes in an omnibus rivers and harbors bill soon to be submitted to congress.

Committeemen reported the vote on the controversial seaway, advocated by President Roosevelt as a to 18 and on the Florida ship canal national defense project, was 17 14 to 10.

LIABILITY RULES EASED ON CARS

Washington, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Each of the 10,000,000-odd passenger automobiles in the east became a potential semi-taxi today upon announcement that insurance companies had eased their liability rules, permitting motorists to share their cars on a pro-rata cost basis as a gasoline conservation measure.

Defense Petroleum Coordinator Ickes announced that, under the modification, drivers will be permitted to carry passengers for charge without paying an increased premium rate and without running a risk of having their policy contracts voided entirely. Persons driving to and from work were urged by Ickes to pick up their neighbors going in the same direction, thus obviating the need of using several automobiles which would multiply gas consumption.

Old rules governing the insurance company's liability permitted automobile owners to carry passengers for pay only when stipulated in the policy, and then upon payment of an additional premium of 10 per cent, Ickes explained.

He said 82 stock and mutual casualty insurance companies voluntarily modified certain underwriting rules to encourage the "share your car" campaign in the effort to cut gasoline consumption on the Atlantc seaboard by one-third.

Smartly Dressed Women in Business and Professional Life Agree Gladly to Sponsor Cotton or Other Substitute Style

MAKE-UP MAY BE FAD

Philadelphia, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Smartly dressed women, leaders in the city's society, business and professional life, are ready to abandon the silk stocking standard cheerfully.

In fact, they agree gladly to sponsor a cotton or other substitute style so that the nation's dwindling supply of silk might go entirely to the army and navy for parachutes and powder bags.

"I shouldn't mind wearing cotton stockings at all; why, I used to wear them when I was a girl," declares Mrs. Harry Lippincott Cassard, long noted for her beautiful grooming.

The grand mother of debutante Sally Cassard, she recalls wearing cotton stockings as a youngster to match her dress "like the fashion experts have been trying to get us to do recently," the colored cottons "were very pretty, and quite expensive," she said.

Nina Liggett, glamour girl of the 1938-39 social season and now a prominent fashion careerist, draws the line at cotton but adds blithely she wouldn't mind saying goodbye to silk.

"I'm going to wear make-up on my legs and never have to worry again about runs in my stock-

Ninety-Dollar Party for 2,500 To "Forget War" Called Great Success

BY FRANKLIN BANKER

Pittsburgh, Aug. 8—(AP)—A young married couple who invited 2,500 persons to a $90 party at their six-room home last night "to become better acquainted and forget war talk" called the affair "a great success."

The hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Curry, Jr., said:

"We had a swell time and everybody thought it was a grand idea. We think that if everyone would be more friendly with each other and have a good time, the world would be a better place for us all."

Curry, a 23-year-old bank clerk, thought up the idea. He invited all the residents of his voting district—but talk of politics, war and such stuff was banned.

Instead the guests, ranging from little tots in bright summer outfits to beaming grandparents, sipped soda pop, ate ice cream out of paper cups, sang popular songs, chatted and were entertained with accordion and piano selections.

They all didn't fit into the parlor at once, of course, but there was room elsewhere about the front lawn, driveway and backyard. No one counted the guests. There were probably several hundred.

In a dispatch from Bangkok, capital of Thailand, Domei said there was every indication the United States, Great Britain and China were making efforts to check Japan and that encirclement had been tightened by establishment of British air bases in Malaya and Burma. Domei added that Britain had plans for strengthening the defense of the Burma Road by closer cooperation with the Chungking government.

PVT. WALLACE BEGINS REGULAR ARMY DUTY

Camp Lee, Va., Aug. 8—(AP)—Private Robert Browne Wallace, 23, son of Vice President Henry A. Wallace, began his regular duty with the army today—determined to like being a soldier.

Young Wallace said he had "no preference" as to the branch of service or where he would go from the Camp Lee reception center.

He was emphatic, however, in his desire "to be in the field" and "not in an office."

A surprise question, "Do you know your army numbers?" brought a prompt "yes, do. 33097177."

OIL CONFISCATED

Shanghai, Aug. 8—(AP)—A Japanese navy spokesman said today about 2,000 barrels of oil aboard the Standard Oil tanker Meiyo had been confiscated by the Japanese navy after "investigation disclosed the oil was destined for guerrilla territory on the north bank of the Yangtze river" a few miles from here. The ship was seized a week ago by the Japanese and turned over to Shanghai customs officials.

PROGRAM TO CONTINUE

The Army has decided not to deprive the public of Henry Aldrich, according to the Associated Press. It has granted Ezra Stone permission to resume as the hero of the Aldrich Family when the show goes on the air again August 21, even though he has been drafted. NBC has no information as to whether the program will be aired from Camp Upton, N. Y., where Stone is stationed, or whether he will be granted standing leave for broadcast nights.

CANCEL CERTIFICATES

The Department of Revenue at Harrisburg has disclosed that after investigations by the state police, certificates of 1,433 official automobile inspection stations had been cancelled this year for improper conduct of their business. The police reported they visited 6,367 stations in the first six months. Motorists must have their cars inspected for major faults twice yearly.

VETS GIVEN PREFERENCE

Governor James yesterday signed a bill providing that veterans of the nation's armed forces be given preference in public jobs. At the same time he vetoed bills to restrict to government employes with at least one year's service the benefits of the act of 1917 providing half pay to families of those called into military service. James said the benefits should apply to all employes willing "to defend our nation."

today, the first anniversary of the start of the air battle of Britain.

Just a year ago the luftwaffe threw 300 bombers and 500 fighters against a channel convoy to start the greatest air battles the world has known. On that day the Germans lost 53 planes but continued their attack until October 31 at a cost put by the British at 2,375 planes.

Last night's raids by the RAF centered on western Germany after two daylight sweeps in which a German airdrome near St. Omer, France, German shipping and other targets near Gravelines were bombed. Germans last night bombed a few places in eastern England and Scotland, injuring a small number of people and causing some damage.

Planes also were playing a major role in the battle of the Atlantic which took a more favorable turn in July, it was announced by A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty.

Berlin, Aug. 8.—(AP)—This capital was raided by air last night but the German High Command, aside from an implication that the raiders were British, did not identify the "individual planes" which bombed Berlin.

For its own offensive score the luftwaffe reported attacks on shipping, airports of England and one harbor on the Scottish east coast as well as on ships and harbor facilities at the British Egyptian base of Alexandria.

MONASTERY MAY GO UNDER THE HAMMER

Pittsburgh, Aug. 8—(AP)—The monastery of St. Teresa of Tisieux at Loretto, given to the Carmelite Sisters by the late Steelmaster Charles Schwab, may be sold at sheriff's auction to satisfy a $20,000 debt.

Attorney C. Randolph Myers, of Ebensburg, reported here that a St. Louis bank last month obtained judgment for that amount on a bond issue which Schwab had guaranteed. He said interest payments on the bonds stopped eight months after Schwab's death in 1939 and that no means had been found to make the payments.

The picturesque monastery is near the Schwab summer home, Immergrun.

KELLY THROUGH WITH QUAKER CITY POLITICS

Philadelphia, Aug. 8—(AP)—John B. Kelly has stepped out permanently as city chairman of the Democratic party to devote all his time to his new job as national director of civilian health training.

His action stunned the city committee after it gathered last night to act on what was expected to be merely a request for leave of absence. Committeemen were loath to accept the resignation until Kelly made it clear he would not reconsider because he regarded his new job as permanent and not an emergency task.

Trucking Executive James P. Clark will replace him.

Gov. James to Name Commission to Handle Paroles by October 1

(From Page One)

The new parole commissioners will receive $10,000 annually, with $500 extra for the chairman. They will appoint a state parole director at $7,500, and up to 10 district parole supervisors at $5,000 each.

Employes of the commission will be required to pass competitive examinations and will be given civil service status.

James vetoed a bill which would have appropriated $25,000 for a study of Pennsylvania's parole system in relation to other states. Rep. Samuel M. Rosenfeld (D-Phila) sponsored the bill which James approved, and which gives the commission power to act on persons already sentenced.

Another legislative combination was split up by veto and signature when James approved an $8,500,000 appropriation to second class townships for roads and bridges, to be spent by the local supervisors, and rejected a $9,500,000 appropriation to first class townships and Philadelphia.

The governor explained that the funds for first class townships were not provided in the budget and never had been appropriated before. The second class township appropriation has been made for many bienniums past.

James suggested that the supervisors in Pennsylvania's 1,500 second class townships might increase the available funds for roads by sponsoring projects under the new "little WPA" plan backed by the state.

The commonwealth will put up a share of the costs for such projects, which are required to take labor from the relief rolls.

James now has signed 403 bills, vetoed 51, and is still holding 43.

The governor tried to arrange his appointments today to enable him to join an official party visiting Ricketts' Glen, 13,000-acre tract of virgin timber and dotted with waterfalls and lakes, in Luzerne, Wyoming and Sullivan counties. The legislature authorized purchase of the glen for $150,000, for a state park.

Old Silk Stockings To Be Collected for Defense Industries

Announcement was made today that worn silk stockings are being collected here to be sent to the government for reprocessing and use in national defense industries.

It was stated this morning that the Metzger-Wright store here is collecting the old silk stockings. They will be sent to the Government Testing Laboratory, Hoboken, N. J., where they will be reprocessed.

"By the women of the country turning in these discarded stockings, it will not only help defense, but leave more silk for manufacture of silk hose," it was stated today. "Thus, in a roundabout way, the women are helping with defense and also with their own stocking problems."

The discarded hose may be taken to the Metzger-Wright store here at any time during store hours, it was pointed out.

One Day Remains for Prospective Voters to Register for the Primary

With but one more day remaining for voters to register in order to be eligible to vote at the September primary, it was reported today by E. E. Lindmark, chief registration clerk, that county residents have been very slow to enroll.

At Columbus yesterday, where a special registration was held, only about thirty persons visited the registrar and most of these were for change of address. Only about a dozen new registrations were received, it was stated.

At the office of the registration commission in the court house here, only 148 persons have been registered so far this year. These include 109 Republicans, 35 Democrats and four non-partisans.

Change of party affiliation also has been light. To date there have been 28 Democrats who have changed to Republican and five Republicans changed to Democrats.

The office of the registration commission will remain open tonight and tomorrow night until nine o'clock in order to permit everyone to register who desires to do so.

Monday is the last day for any elector who has moved into a new election district to give notice to the registration commission in order to be permitted to vote at the fall primary. However, these persons must have moved on or before July 8th in order to be eligible to vote at the primary.

A change has been made in the law regarding change of address within an election district, making it possible for an elector to cast his ballot at the polls without first notifying the registration commission. However, full details concerning this law were being studied at the court house here today and will be announced later.

OUTDOOR MEAL IS ENJOYED AT COUNTRY CLUB

Men of the Conewango Valley Country Club held their first annual stag picnic yesterday evening in the grove between No. 1 and No. 2 fairways, this outdoor meal being an innovation for the regular men's day and taking the place of the usual dinner at the clubhouse.

Members and their guests enjoyed steaks grilled over charcoal and green corn as the chief items on the picnic menu.

Among the guests were a number of former Warren men, including T. K. Creal, Sr., of Lake Worth, Fla.; Clair Lowe, of Trinidad, South America, and Ralpn Lowe, of Charleston, W. Va., who are vacationing at Lake Chautauqua; Snowden Richards, Nathan Parker and Norman C. Ray, of Pittsburgh, Kay, Richards, Inc., officials here to visit the local office for the day.

Qualifying rounds for the men's championship are under way today, Saturday and Sunday, with first flight matches following next week.

WARREN PISTOL TEAM WINS BROCKWAY MATCH

The Warren Conplanter pistol team won a match at the Jefferson county Pennsylvania Gam Commission Training School dedication yesterday from the best team of the current class by a score of 1286 to 1260.

Three positions were fired, 25 yards slow, 25 yards time-fire, 15 yards rapid fire.

SERVICES HELD THURSDAY FOR KANE PASTORS

Funeral services were held in Kane on Thursday for two of the community's most popular and well known pastors, with requiem high mass at St. Callistus' church at ten o'clock for Father P. J. Donahue, and at 2:30 o'clock in Tabor Lutheran church for Rev. J. V. Benson.

During the morning rites, Father Jerome J. Maher, assistant to the late priest, acted as celebrant; Father J. F. Murphy, of Ridgway, as deacon, and Father Michael E. Dailey, of the Holy Redeemer church here, as sub-deacon. The eulogy was delivered by Father John McAndrew, of Conneaut, and final absolution was given by Bishop John Mark Gannon, of Erie.

Immediately following the services, the funeral cortege left for Bradford, where committal services were conducted by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. David F. Hickey in St. Bernard's cemetery.

Accompanying Father Dailey to the services were Father Edward Jacobs, of St. Joseph's, and Father Arnold Walters, home on vacation from Statesville, N. C. Father M. J. Macken, of St. Clara's church in Clarendon, was in attendance, also.

Rev. Felix V. Hanson, of Jamestown, N. Y., president of the New York Conference of the Augustana Synod, conducted the final rites for Rev. Benson, which were attended by ministers and laymen from throughout this section.

Rev. W. W. Nyline, representing the Kane Ministerial Association, paid the respects of that body, and the entire board of education of Kane public schools, of which Mr. Benson was a member, attended in a body. At 2:30, as the church bell tolled for the opening of the service, it was joined by the heavy bells of St. Callistus in a tribute to Rev. Benson, Tabor bells having tolled in the morning hours for the departed priest and friend of the Lutheran minister.

Assisting Dr. Hanson were Rev. H. M. Fahnstrom, of Wilcox; Rev. A. B. Bergstrom, of Ridgway; and Rev. C. Russell Lundgren, of Port Allegany. Honorary bearers were other ministers of the Conference and Synod.

Rev. Bertil Edquist, of St. Paul's church here, and Rev. Carl Gronquist, of Sheffield and Ludlow charges, attended from this section.

IMPORTANT TO VOTERS

This reminder may be a little tardy but it is not entirely too late to be of service to citizens who may have neglected to make certain that they are eligible to vote in the September primary.

The County Commissioners have given publicity to the fact that Saturday will be the last day for citizens to change party affiliations to be effective to vote this fall, and the same thing applies to new voters who are not registered.

At the same time it has been announced that changes of address must be filed in the commissioners' office at the court house by Monday, August 11th.

For the accommodation of those who may have overlooked this important duty the county officials have arranged to have the commissioners' office open this evening and until nine o'clock tomorrow night.

Summed up, this means that if you desire to change party affiliation, have changed address since the last election, or desire to vote for the first time this fall, better go to the court house and be properly registered before tomorrow night at nine o'clock.

DOESN'T SEEM TO BE WORKING

An Associated Press dispatch from Washington received by the Times-Mirror too late for publication Thursday states that an increase of 1,029,886 gallons in the weekly use of motor fuels in the east, was the public's reply to "insistent and repeated appeals" for a voluntary cut of one-third.

Petroleum Coordinator Ickes says the figures supplied by fifteen principal oil companies for the week ending August first showed that the sales of gasoline to dealers and through company-owned service stations totaled 117,716,502 gallons, compared with 116,686,636 gallons for the week ending July 25, and 115,155,694 for the week ending July 18.

Since the report for the week ending August first was compiled the "gasolineless nights" edict was issued, and it will be interesting to watch the result of the new order.

So far as Warren is concerned experience so far indicates that motorists have met the situation merely by buying more fuel during the day to make up for the quantities they formerly obtained in the evening or at night.

Ickes renewed the warning yesterday that a compulsory plan to conserve gasoline in the east "may not be very far off," and it would not be amiss to predict that a rating card system by Labor Day may be the next move, if the curfew plan now being tried out does not work.

There will be no conservation of fuel during these gasolineless nights unless there is less operating of automobiles.

According to reports from Washington the Surplus Marketing Administration bought a million cans of surplus grapefruit juice to feed the British, but the lime-juicers had never heard of it and wouldn't have it. The free school lunch program will get it next winter.

Here's a tip for Warren girls and women who are stocking up on silk stockings: The Bureau of Standards recommends that silk hose be washed immediately after being purchased to make 'em keep longer.

No wonder those Warren boys employed down at Washington are so well satisfied with their jobs. They say the capital has 91 males to every 100 females.

Aside to the youngsters: Repairs have been about completed on the buildings in the borough for the opening of the fall term next month!

It isn't helping Uncle Sam to conserve fuel by buying up quantities of gasoline to be stored in dangerous places about the garage or the home.

Good time now to be looking after your furnace and getting it in shape for the first wintry blast.

It appears that since Americans dropped the "ho" out of "ho, hum," things have been humming.

In a Strange Sort of Way, That Sounds Familiar

• EDSON'S WASHINGTON COLUMN •

BY PETER EDSON
Times-Mirror Washington Correspondent

Washington, Aug. 8—With all the millions and billions of dollars being appropriated and thrown around Washington these days, it is good medicine, every now and then, to take a run over to the department of the government which seems to get a big kick out of saving a few thousand dollars here and there.

This outfit, known as the Treasury Procurement division, does most of the miscellaneous buying for all the government agencies, excepting only the defense purchases and what the Department of Agriculture buys of surplus commodities.

Just the other day, for instance, the Procurement division announced that it had saved the government $11,000 on snake bite kits. Now at first thought you might imagine that the only need the government had for snake bite kits would be to administer when Republicans bit Democrats and vice versa, or when New Dealers bit businessmen and vice versa. But that isn't the situation at all.

The Department of Agriculture and Interior have field agents and forest rangers, and then there's the Border Patrol, all of whom frequently run into real rattlesnakes, copperheads or gila monsters and have to take steps. Heretofore, there have been no standard specifications for snake bite kits, and the prices have varied. But the Specifications division of the Procurement division got all the boys together recently, got them to agree on a standard kit, and by making purchases in quantity, saved Uncle Sam the 11 grand.

This matter of standardization of specifications on non-defense purchases is what the Procurement division is working on all the time now, and it's bringing results. The drive for simplification has been indirectly spurred on by the defense program, for in the desire to get civilian manufacturing down to as few lines as possible, in order to switch productive capacity over to defense items, corners have to be cut.

The OPM crowd got Treasury Procurement interested in this work, and now all government agencies have to submit their purchase orders to this division for analysis, simplification and check.

The thing even gets down to fights over typewriter ribbons. There are specifications, it seems, and then there are alternate specifications. Your normal, peacetime typewriter ribbon is a special, finely woven silk with over three hundred threads to the inch. There's a shortage of these fine weaves, however, because of the demand for balloon silk. So the government has adopted alternate specifications in which they take a coarser weave in the typewriter ribbons. Soldiers who go up in balloons should think of the hardships they work on government clerks, because of this, whenever sky-riding.

Incidentally, the government used over a million typewriter ribbons last year. And still more incidentally, the government used nine million pencils, 94 million sheets of carbon paper and 180 million paper clips. As that's nearly a paper clip and a half for every man, woman and child in the country, it can be taken that maybe this is what holds the democracy together. Linked end to end, they should stop the German invasion. Maybe, also, it explains the steel shortage.

Italians Fail to Chase British Out of Malta

MALTA, lying 140 miles from the Italian mainland and 180 from Africa, is Britain's naval base in the middle Mediterranean. It is a British bulwark between Gibraltar on the west and Alexandria and Suez on the east.

Since 1798, when England seized the island from Napoleon, Malta has been under British control. It is a British Crown Colony consisting of three islands, Malta, Gozo and Comino. The government issued the stamp above, showing the important harbor at Valletta, in 1901.

Lord Nelson, who captured the island, said: "Malta is absolutely worthless as a British naval base." Until the myth of Italian military strength was exploded in World War II, Malta was considered hopelessly vulnerable by the British. The proximity of the island to Italy along with the vaunted Italian air arm were thought to be too severe handicaps for the British defenders.

Italy has boxed in the island fortress by mines and subjected it to repeated air attack without much success.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The nicest thing I can report today is the arrival of two slim-legged youngsters whose names are Margarita and Maria, who come from Morelia, Mexico, to sing south-of-the-border ballads to the citizens who find Benito Collada's Greenwich Village restaurant, El Chico, a gratifying rendezvous these high-starred, long, hot nights.

Margarita and Maria are sisters and their last name is Padilla. They are part Indian. They have a repertoire of 3,700 ballads, laments, and romantic songs, and when I interrupted to ask, "Did you say three thousand and seven hundred?" they nodded and answered "Si."

That's a lot of songs, you think, and Margarita agrees with you. "That's also a mighty good brand of English you speak for a girl who was reared in the central sector of Mexico," you say to this girl, who is three years the senior of her 20-year-old sister.

"We went to night school three years," she explained. "But even now I do not arrange my words properly. In English you put the adjective before the noun, which is difficult for me to remember, as when I tried to send a night letter the other night and told the telegraph operator I wanted to send a 'letter night'."

YOU sit in El Chico in little alcoves under the imperial seals of the provinces of old Spain, and suddenly the Padilla sisters, in wide, hooped and braided Mexican-Indian skirts come out.

These dresses weigh so much their shoulders ache just from the weight. . . . "Cost me 450 pesos," Margarita confessed, indicating the black, blue, white, green and silver of her costume. The sombrero, or Mexican hat that dangled from each of their small, olive necks cost 150 pesos.

They had guitars and they strummed their own accompaniment as they sang "La Borracha," which is a song about a girl who has had "one drink too many." Their singing, always in Spanish, never in English, is riotous, gay, sometimes undisciplined but always noisily appreciated.

A number they dote on singing is "Caste Y Veras," which means "Get Married and You'll See," and another is "Prinonero de Mar," a bolero which means "Prisoner of the Ocean."

MARIA, who is the quieter of the two, shyly confessed she was hog wild over Bette Davis and wishes she could be like that distinguished film actress.

Though this is their first glimpse of New York their names are not entirely unknown in the record shops and juke-box casinos of the metropolis. Margarita and Maria have been recording their softly romantic tunes for Columbia the last four years.

In private life Margarita loves above all else the rhythms of the tango, and after that the bolero. Surprisingly, she cares little about dancing. She is single and so is Maria, "but the ring which I have changed to this finger used to be an engagement ring," admits Margarita. This is a condition that may soon be altered. In the last year El Chico has had three of its most fetching people forsake professional life for matrimony.

Chapter Ten

Bombshell For Eve

"JEFF, have you found Lee Gray? Tell us!"

"I don't know if I should trust you with a thing like that, Haila."

"Jeff, stop it! I swear I won't breathe a word to any-one."

"Well," he lowered his voice and looked around, "I'll tell you then. It isn't you."

"That's enlightening. Is that all?"

"No. It isn't Eve North or Alice McDonald. It isn't Phoebe Thompson. They thought that note might have been written by one of the women in the cast and signed with a fictitious name. But specimens of all their handwriting show that none of them compares with Lee Gray's."

"Apparently not."

"Well, that's swell. You're getting along fine. Now get off those chairs. Carol and I have a show to play."

Jeff obligingly went and stood in the corner while we made up. I glanced at Carol in the glass. Her hands shook a little as she dabbed on rouge and purple eye shadow and dotted her lashes with mascara, but long before the call for places came she was ready, waiting with her hands folded in her lap.

Peterson opened the door and looked around the room. "Feeling all right, Miss Blanton?"

She nodded briefly and managed a smile.

He said, "That's fine. Now don't worry. Everything's going to be okay tonight. I'll be near you all the time."

Jeff said, "Me, too, Carol. All you have to do is reach our your hand to touch me."

Peterson grimaced good-naturedly. "Yeah, Troy's playing cop now, too.

It was nearly eight-fifteen when Eve arrived. We heard her running lightly up the stairs, Amelia's sonorous footsteps close behind her, and the door of the dressing room next to ours clicked shut. Jeff went out quickly and I followed him, watching as he knocked at Eve's door. It opened only a crack, which Amelia's bulk filled amply, and Jeff said, "I want to see Miss North."

"She can't see you."

"Only for a second," Jeff said firmly.

"She don't have a second, she's late now. She has to dress. The door shut in his face. He waited a moment and lifted his hand to knock again. Then apparently he thought better of it and came back.

"Congratulations," I said.

He scowled at me. "When does that sea lion named Amelia leave her side?"

"Almost never. Sit down and stop fretting. You won't be able to see her now until intermission. She's on nearly all of the first act."

That first act was a nightmare. I had known our performances would be uninspired, but I hadn't expected a weird burlesque. And that was what "Green Apples," acclaimed and lauded by the critics in the morning, amounted to that Tuesday night.

Anxious to show, I think, how completely unaffected he was by all this mystery, Philip Ashley overacted until he might have been playing the dagger scene from "Macbeth" instead of a quietly humorous British professor. Steve was jumpy, too, the unhurried, gangly quality that gave his work such charm gone completely. Only Eve showed nothing at all. Her performance was a replica of the one she had given the night before, identical to the slightest detail. I don't quite know what I did. With my mind on Carol all the time, I went mechanically through my lines and business, my exits and my entrances.

Tension

THE audience seemed cold and hostile to us from the first and we hated them for it. We threw our funny lines in their collective faces with a there-that's-funny-laugh-now-damn-you air. The applause, when the curtain fell on the first act, was scattered and painfully polite.

I looked at Carol standing behind the chair at stage left and drew a breath of deep relief. That much was over anyway. That much was behind us. I took her arm and we went upstairs together, Peterson following us. Over the banister I caught a glimpse of a black-clad figure hurrying across the stage toward the prop room.

As we went into the dressing room Peterson, having told Jeff to stand by for a few minutes, went clattering back down the stirs.

"I just saw the sea lion on stage," I told Jeff after the detective had disappeared. "I think she's getting Eve some tea or something. Now's your chance, M. Poirot. I'll take care of Carol."

He was out before I had finished. I heard his knock on Eve's door and her "Who is it?" I slipped out of the white sport dress and into the lamé evening gown, trying to keep my ear against the wall. Eve's voice rang out astonishingly clear.

"I don't see people during a performance! Please leave."

Jeff said, "You don't see people hardly any time, Miss North. But I'm afraid you've got to see me now."

Eve was resigned and patient. "Well, what is it?"

Carol turned from her mirror and opened her mouth to speak. I gestured toward Eve's room and she stopped and sat up straight listening, too, her eyes riveted on the wall in front of her.

"It is none of your concern, Mr. Troy," Eve was saying in a voice cold with repressed fury, "what I was doing at that table. It's outrageous that you should ask. I won't tolerate this . . . bursting in and questioning me about my acting . . ."

"I don't want to know anything about your acting," Jeff said. "Last night you inserted some business that wasn't acting around that table. And when there is the question of murder . . ."

There was a toppling sound as though someone had clutched at something and found it had seesawed before steadying itself. Then, after a pause, Eve's voice came again, almost a whisper.

"Murder!"

"You didn't know?" Jeff was surprised.

"No, I didn't. It's . . . it's a shock to me."

"You've been out of town all day so you couldn't have talked to anybody from the theater, Miss North . . . but surely you've seen the newspapers."

Eve said very quietly, "I haven't seen any papers since the first editions this morning. I think you can understand that, Mr. Troy."

"I understand," Jeff said. "Then you wouldn't know about Carol. She was poisoned last night in the dining room scene. There were four grams of morphine in the glass she drank out of."

Shock For Eve

THE wall trembled slightly, Eve must have leaned against it. We waited an eternity for the sound of her voice. "Morphine in her glass. . . ." She breathed the words. I could scarcely catch them.

"Yes," Jeff said. "So you must see why I'm anxious to know why you were doing things, unrehearsed things, at that table. I know you did. I heard Mr. Ashley speaking to you about it last night. He said you rattled glasses."

Eve said falteringly, "There were no flowers on the table, there was nothing for me to do." She broke off suddenly and laughed. "Oh, I see, Mr. Troy! I do see what you're getting at! You think that possibly I was doing something else at the table, perhaps slipping . . . morphine, did you say it was? . . . into Carol's glass!"

"I'm merely asking questions, Miss North."

"That would've been a clever idea! While a thousand people were watching, to have dropped the poison in the glass before their very eyes and not to have been seen doing it!" Eve laughed again, almost hysterically. "That would have taken a good actress! And even you must know by now, Mr. Troy, that I'm not a good actress. For further details see your favorite newspaper." The bitterness drained from Eve's voice and she went on, sounding very old and very tired. "No, I didn't do it. . . . I didn't poison Carol Blanton. . . . I . . . I . . ."

If Eve said anything more, Tommy calling "Places" at our door drowned out her words. He went next door and we heard his incredulity at finding Eve still in her first act costume. Then we heard Clint Bowers in the hall outside talking to Tommy, telling him to hold the curtain a few minutes. Jeff came back looking grim.

There was only time for Carol and me to take hasty, unseeing glances in the mirror and run out. Alice was outside the door and Carol said as we passed: "Don't go away, Alice. We may need you yet."

It was said lightly, jestingly, but the tight-lipped smile that accompanied the words showed what an effort it had been.

The second act went some better. The detectives were still keeping vigil but they were listening to the lines. Sullavan seemed frankly puzzled by Greeley Morris' brilliant display of wit, but Peterson smiled in the right places.

Philip Ashley had toned down his performance and the rest of us gradually took his pace. I trembled when Eve made her entrance in that act. From the moment she swept on, her hand tinkering at the collar of the icy white jacket she wore over her evening dress in a gesture that had long ago been famous, I knew that it would be all right. Eve had trouped too long and too hard to let anything ruffle her stage composure.

Her voice, as she threw her lines away, might have been a little tense and her mannerisms a little stilted, but not enough for an audience to notice. I knew I had been waiting nervously for that moment when she entered, and her serenity was reassuring.

It wasn't until we were three-quarters through the second act that it happened.

Flight Students Near Completion Of Their Courses at Airport Here

Marshall Johnston Burdette McCool Tidioute Harry Green

The third Civilian Pilot Training ground school started last Monday night. It is being held in the usual place at Jefferson street school. Hours are from 7-9 or 9-11. The enrollment will be completed by the end of the week and the class will be closed. There is room for several more applicants, but they must apply by the end of the week.

The ground school is under the capable management of Marshall F. Mathis. Mr. Mathis holds all the necessary ratings which entitles him to conduct classes for the government in the various classes such as civil air regulations, navigation, meteorology, parachutes, engines, theory of flight and instruments. He also holds a valid flight instructor's rating. Mr. Mathis has been conducting ground school classes for the King Air Service for the past five years and has been holding classes at St. Bonaventure College at Olean. He is a very competent instructor and has been getting wonderful results from his students. The grades made by the last class were the highest on record.

The present flight class is progressing rapidly. Two of Mr. King's students who have completed their dual cross country flights are Marshall Johnston and Ned Perry. The first cross country course is from Warren to Jamestown to Corry and home. The second course is to Corry, Oil City and back to Warren. The student must land at the airports and secure signatures that landings were made there. They fly the courses with their instructor and then they fly it alone. All in all, they receive six hours of cross country flying. They all look forward to the cross country flights as the high light of their training.

Jess Perry, Jr., who is one of Helen M. Walker's students, has finished his course. He has passed the flight test for his private pilot's license. He completed the course in six weeks.

William Swanson, who has been on leave, flew the cruiser to Buffalo and expected to leave from there for Boston. He has six months more in the navy to complete his hitch.

The new American naval attache in China, Major James McHugh, U. S. M. C., is the author of a textbook on the Chinese "Mandarin" dialect.

SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS MEETING AT RUSSELL HI

Russell, Aug. 8—At a meeting of the Pine Grove school board, held this week, bids for coal were opened, new teachers assigned, school bus drivers named and other matters of business transacted.

The bid of Joe Fitzgerald, of North Pine Grove, for supplying 75 or more tons of coal for the Russell school during the year was accepted by the board.

The resignation of Mrs. Hazel Bauer, teacher of the third grade, was accepted with regret, and Miss Margaret Lindquist was transferred from the fifth grade to the position vacated by Mrs. Bauer.

Miss Marie Brown, of Bear Lake, was elected teacher of the fifth grade and Lawrence Briggs was named substitute teacher for mathematics and science to take the place of Paul Butler, who was drafted into the army.

At an earlier meeting, Miss Masie Johnson, of Corry, was named seventh grade teacher.

Drivers named to transport pupils are as follows: Cable Hollow—Eric Hellman, 2 years; Bachupsley and Thompson Hill—Carl Hallroute—Eric Hellman, 2 years; Akeer, 1 year; Akeley Hollow and Egypt Hollow—Guy Leslie, 1 year; Fox Hill and Smith Hill—Burt Fox, 1 year; Norberg Road and Gouldtown—M. W. Nicholson, 1 year.

corridors, is conducted not from the Treasury, but from the Procurement division's own building over on the other side of the railroad tracks in southwest Washington. It's well off the tourist path, but it's a sight to see, nonetheless. It's a kind of half-office, half-warehouse building, presided over by Director Clifton E. Mack.

On one floor, you walk along a corridor till you come to a room where you think the architect must have gone nuts. The room is tiled, but with every kind of tile ever heard of, and no two square feet are alike. Nobody works in the room, for it would drive even a psychoanalyist screwy in two seconds. But whenever the Procurement division has to buy tile, they take the salesman to this Dali room and say, "Give us a price on No. 67."

Bids on government orders are opened every morning in the famous bid room, No. 798. It has a mail box of the street-corner variety at the back, and sharply at 10 a. m., the two men in charge of the room start opening bids and reading over a loud speaker system the offers submitted by competitors for government business. The room seats about 100 people, and the salesmen and tradepaper reporters are usually on hand. Public reading of the bids is required by law, but before the contracts are let, they are tabulated by the Contract and Purchases section, which makes the awards.

Not all the savings of the Procurement division are measured in chicken feed. They saved a million bucks last year, on a $5 million order of fixtures for defense housing, but nobody paid much attention to it.

Dorcas Class Gives Member A Farewell

There was a large attendance, more than 40 members and guests, at the meeting and party held last evening by the Dorcas Class of the First Lutheran church.

Mrs. Mary Russell, who leaves soon to make her home in Philadelphia, was the guest of honor and was presented a group gift and best wishes.

Another guest was Sister Marie Freese, who told very interestingly of her work in the Dayton, O., Inner Mission.

Special music was provided by Donald and Harold Grosch, with Hawaiian selections, and Miss Lois Callard, pianist.

Refreshments were served from a table prettily centered with summer flowers and presided over by Mrs. Belle Chalmers, class secretary, and Mrs. Erma Eckardt, class treasurer. On the social committee were Mrs. Margaret Rapp, Mrs. Charlotte Turner, Miss Gertrude Keller, Mrs. Mary Rapp and Mrs. Frances Stover.

Plans were discussed for a corn and wiener roast for the September meeting of the group, the plans to be announced in detail at a later date.

St. Paul's Lutheran Women Visit Home

About 70 women of the St. Paul's Lutheran Missionary Society went to Jamestown, N. Y., on Thursday to entertain the 25 women who are guests at the old people's home.

The program opened with a song and scripture reading and prayer by Mrs. Alfred Jacobson. Mrs. J. A. Johnson and Mrs. Gust Carlson sang two duets, with accompaniments played by Mrs. Emil Jacobson.

Mrs. Hannah Leander, who is 87 years of age, pleased with a Swedish reading and Mrs. Carl Lundahl gave two lovely poems. After a group song, the benediction was recited in unison.

Refreshments were served in the garden-orchard at the home, where Rev. A. Holmberg, assistant pastor of the First Lutheran church of Jamestown, extended a greeting and gave a brief talk.

A nice sum was realized in a silver offering and this was presented to ehe home, together with a shower of groceries.

Mary Kathleen Allen To Be Bride Aug. 15

Mrs. Roy Allen, 11 Nesmith street, gave a miscellaneous shower party at her home last evening to honor her daughter, Mary Kathleen, who is soon to be wed.

Miss Allen has chosen August 15 for her marriage to Frederick Kays, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kays, of West street.

Many prizes were awarded for a pleasant evening of games and garden flowers in pink and white were used for the luncheon table and home decorations.

Out of town guests were Mrs. James Tuttle, of Johnstown; Mrs. Benson Baxter, of Russell; Mrs. Fred Sechriest, of Pittsfield.

The bride-elect was showered with many lovely gifts for the future home.

Mahaffy and Karl Marriage Announced

Mrs. Ruth H. Karl, of Shippenville, announces the marriage of her daughter, Kathryn, to Wayne A. Mahaffy, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Mahaffy, 13 Mead street, Warren.

The ceremony took place May 3 in Frederick, Md., Rev. Benjamin W. Meeks officiating in the Calvary Methodist church.

Mrs. Mahaffy was graduated from the Shippenville High School in the Class of 1939 and from the Hoff Business College here in 1940. She is employed at the Carlisle Barracks in Carlisle.

Mr. Mahaffy, graduate of the local high school in 1938 and of Hoff's in 1939, is employed in the Warren post office.

They will be at home at 601 West Fifth avenue after September 1.

With Our Boys at Indiantown Gap

By Special Correspondence

BY F. L. FITZPATRICK

Indiantown Gap, Aug. 8—(AP)—Eighty-one soldiers of the 28th Division are scheduled to leave tonight for Jefferson barracks, Missouri, for training in the U. S. Army Air Corps—the first to respond to a new call for recruits from the Pennsylvania unit.

The men, all former National Guardsmen and Selectees, are volunteers for the air service who "signed up" in a drive started Wednesday to obtain 300—the quota for this post—for the Missouri station. The men were discharged from their various units of the "Iron Division" yesterday and reenlisted today under army regulations, it was disclosed by Captain Henry S. Matthews, Washington, D. C., post recruiting and personnel officer.

Capt. Matthews said the recruits will enter schools for specialized training in motors, fabrics, radio navigation, etc. Each of these courses, Capt. Matthews said, would cost about $500 in a civilian school. He said the 300 quota from this reservation will probably be attained by next Monday night, when an additional group of volunteers will leave for the Missouri school.

When the quota is filled for Jefferson barracks, recruiting will start for training posts at Biloxi, Miss., Wichita Falls, Tex., Panama and Puerto Rico, Capt. Matthews said.

Earlier this summer 450 soldiers of Pennsylvania's "Iron Division" were discharged to enlist in the air service, and approximately 50 additional men left to become army flying cadets.

From Scranton's 109th Infantry Regiment, alone, came 34 of the 81 who will leave tomorrow night for Missouri.

CHURCH REVIVALS

GOSPEL TABERNACLE

At 7:30 this evening a young people's rally of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, comprising societies from Bradford, Kane, Jamestown, Corry, Erie, Titusville and a number of smaller towns, will be held in the newly established Warren Gospel Tabernacle.

Special music, vocal and instrumental, by talented young people of the visiting churches will be a feature of the program. Participating will be Rev. Lawrence Van-Horn, of the Kane Gospel Tabernacle and Rev. Milton Scripture, of Bradford Gaspel Tabernacle.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Gordon Abrams, of the Christian Missionary Alliance church of Corry.

The pastor, Rev. Harry Girts, extends a cordial invitation to both young and old of Warren and vicinity to attend this special service.

LOCAL INTEREST IN MEXICO CITY NORMAL

Many friends here will be pleased at the news that Hubert Zwald, well known former Warren pianist, is a member of Dr. LeRoy B. Campbell's party for the summer normal being conducted in August and September in Mexico City, Mexico.

Dr. Campbell writes that the party was received with dignity and enthusiasm and that he made the response to the welcoming speech extended by the faculty of the university where sessions are being held. His first lecture, he reports, was on "The Source and Development of Mexican Art" and was given in the most beautiful art room in the city, the Del Robia room of the Retorna Hotel. Headquarters of the party while in Mexico City are at the Hotel Marie Christina.

Family Reunions

CARR FAMILY

The Carr family, consisting of descendants of Hiram and Abigail Carr, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ludwick at Lander Sunday for the annual reunion. There were 93 relatives and friends present from Akron, O.; Frewsburg, Kiantone and Kennedy, N. Y.; Erie, Meadville, Warren, Youngsville and Pittsfield.

A picnic dinner was served cafeteria style on the lawn and at the business meeting, the following officers were elected: President, Dorothy Forman, Meadville; vice president, Gerald Mason, Meadville; secretary, Leola Darling, Kennedy. The location of the 1942 gathering will be the home of Oscar Bolin at Kiantone.

The afternoon was spent with contests, quoits and a ball game. Ice cream and cake were served late in the day.

BULL AND HANKIN

The annual reunion of the Bull and Hankin families was held on August 2 at Island Park at Youngsville, with about 55 in attendance. A bountiful picnic dinner was served at noon and, later in the day ice cream and cake were served.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Basil Hankin, president; Roy Bull, vice president; Maude Nuttall, secretary-treasurer. Guests were present from Conewango and Jamestown, N. Y., Kane, Irvine, Garland, Sugar Grove and Youngsville.

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

Eight thousand miles may seem a long distance to travel, but stopping off at several cities a day and meeting the bridge players in those cities, you don't notice the distance. At least, that is the way Mrs. McKenney, Waldemar von Zedtwitz, and I found our recent transcontinental bridge tour.

Morgan Howard, vice president of the American Contract Bridge League, a former resident of Pittsburgh, and now located in Los Angeles, came up to meet us in San Francisco. While I did not have a chance to play with him in the tournament, I kibitzed a few hands he played with Mrs. Howard. He likes to put over a psychic once in a while. I thought he did a pretty good job on today's hand.

Of course, after Mrs. Howard's opening bid, Morgan (North) decided to go to at least four hearts. But to bid four hearts right over the double might simply incite the non-vulnerable opponents to bid four spades or five diamonds. In fact, this was precisely the effect of the jump when it was tried at other tables. So Howard decided to try to bluff the opponents out of bidding spades, which might be their best suit.

A bid of one spade would still let the opponents in cheaply, so he bid two spades, a bid that he knew Mrs. Howard would not pass. Both opponents were now content to wait and let North and South get into trouble. Thus they were talked out of their game and actually doubled four hearts, which of course was laid down.

NEVER TOO OLD

Never too old to fish was the spirit illustrated by John Verguson, 99, in applying for a fishing license at Emporium. Verguson, Cameron county's oldest resident, said, "I want to do a little bass and pickerel fishing before the season is over. If I can't get a ride to the right stream, I'll walk."

WAIVES HEARING

Louis G. Jackson, Southwest township, was arraigned last evening before Justice of the Peace T. Richard Evans on a charge of fraud, resulting from his allegedly receiving relief illegally. He pleaded not guilty, was placed under $500 bail, which was furnished, and waived hearing for the September term of court.

CARP ANGLERS HEED

Though it is a good thing to clean the river of carp, it is asked by authorities that those taken from Conewango creek, or the Allegheny river near residential sections be buried or otherwise disposed of, rather than merely being left upon the river banks. Unless co-operation is given, more effective steps will be taken, it was stated.

HELD IN THEFT

A 23-year-old Titusville man was held in jail there today, charged with robbery in the theft of $62.58 from the Titusville Eagles Club. Police said the man admitted hiding in a lavatory shortly before the club closed last night and taking the money and several packages of cigarettes from the grill. Police, who saw him leave, apprehended him at his home.

Cards Back On Top As Cooper Returns; Tigers Beat Feller

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals are back on top of the National League see-saw today, but their position in the standings is not as important as the fact that Mort Cooper is back with his pitching magic.

Until he developed elbow trouble in June, the 27-year-old right-hander figured to be the ace of Billy Southworth's pitching corps.

Yesterday came the real test when Cooper was sent out against the Cincinnati Reds and pitched and batted the Cardinals to a 3-2 11-inning victory that put St. Louis in front of the idle Brooklyn Dodgers again by just a shade.

Cooper held Cincinnati scoreless till the seventh in a pitching duel with Bucky Walters, whom the Cards cut for a run in the second. Then they struggled scoreless again till the 11th, when Johnny Mize singled, Enos Slaughter doubled, and Estel Crabtree and Cooper singled for two runs.

In the only other National League game, the Pittsburgh Pirates took a 4-3 decision over the Chicago Cubs on Al Lopez' homer with two out in the ninth. Sparked by Hank Leiber's circuit smash the Cubs scored three times in the second inning to drive Ken Heintzelman from the box, but Lloyd Dietz held them scoreless the rest of the way. Pittsburgh capitalized on their seven hits off Jake Mooty. It was the Pirates' sixth straight triumph and their 18th in 21 games.

The New York Yankees dropped a 9-5 verdict to the Boston Red Sox for their fifth loss in seven contests. Ted Williams hit his 22nd homer and two singles to lead Boston's 12-hit attack on three New York pitchers.

The defeat did not reduce the Yankees' American League lead, however, for Detroit downed Bob Feller and the Cleveland Indians, 4-3, in 13 innings. Feller struck out 13, but walked 11 and in the eighth inning forced in one run with a pass when the bases were loaded.

The Washington Senators sent the once-hopeful Philadelphia Athletics crashing to their fifth straight defeat, 5-4, on six-hit pitching by Sid Hudson and Walt Masterson and an attack led by Catcher Al Early, who supplied two doubles and two singles. Sam Chapman hit a homer and triple for all the A's runs.

The Chicago White Sox went on a hitting spree in the last four innings of a night game, pounding out 17 hits to beat the St. Louis Browns, 11-1.

NORTH WARREN TRIUMPHS OVER WARREN EAGLES

The State Hospital beat the Warren Eagles last night 6 to 3, but they were awarded three runs on a platter by wild pitches, and a fourth run scored via an error.

The Eagles jumped off to a 2-0 lead which they held into the third canto, but then loose ball afield saw them fall apart and lose a game that might just as easily have gone the other way.

The State Hospital had only four hits and made three errors before the six inning encouter was over, while the Eagles had five hits and only one error.

However, with the bases loaded in the third, Bob Baker, Eagles hurler, sent three men home on consecutive wild deliveries.

Except for that little streak of wildness, which settled the contest, Baker did a fine job on the mound.

"Rabbit" Swanson used two young rookies, Weaver and Dick Kifer. The latter pitched shutout ball from the third inning on, and showed quite well for a young tosser with little experience behind him.

The two teams may clash again next week in an evening tilt, and the Eagles will play a rubber game with the Marconi Club next week also. A mixture of Marconi and Eagles players meet the Hospital Saturday.

NO-HIT GAMES TURNED IN BY MINOR LEAGUES

Savannah, Ga., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Twenty-two-year old Joe Page of Harmanville, Pa., playing his first year in class B baseball, pitched a no-hit, no-run game last night as Augusta, Ga., defeated Savannah 4 to 0 in a South Atlantic League game.

Page, who played last year at Butler, Pa., pitched to only 25 official batters and retired the side in order five times. He has won eight and lost 10 with Augusta this season.

Scranton, Aug. 8—(AP)—Thirty years ago "Smokey Joe" Wood smoked a baseball past the St. Louis Browns for a no-hit, 5-0 shutout for the Boston Red Sox in the American League.

Last night "Smokey Joe" sat in the stands at Scranton, Pa., and watched his son duplicate that feat for the Scranton Miners against the Albany Senators in the Class A Eastern League.

It was father-like son as Joe Wood, Jr., who was graduated from Yale University two months ago and joined Scranton a month ago, set the Senators down.

Only 29 batters faced the 25-year-old righthander who said after his masterpiece: "I was just lucky." The young mound star fanned five, walked three and retired the first 11 men to face him. Only one Albany player got as far as second base and only four balls were hit into the outfield.

MUST ENTER IN NET TOURNEY BY TOMORROW NOON

Up until noon tomorrow entries will be accepted for this community's city-wide tennis tourney, the first of its kind in several years, play in which begins next Tuesday.

Only the better tennis players in the town and surroundings seem to have taken interest, but it looks as though one good tournament among class A players will be in the offing.

At this writing today there are eight entered in the Class A men's singles. The Class B awaits its first entrant and the women just don't have a large enough number, according to reports, to make a tourney.

Those who have entered in the men's singles are: Frank Irvine, last year's county champion, who'll be seeded No. 1; Harry Conroy, Jr., runner-up to Irvine last year and seeded No. 2; and Johnny Anderson, Curtis Goodwin, George Brown, Harry Conroy, W. H. Smith, Dick Ross, and Stan Korb, all to be seeded.

Opening round matches will be scheduled over the weekend, announced in the Times-Mirror on Monday, with the opening matches scheduled for Tuesday.

There is no entry fee, and prizes will be awarded the winner and runner-up.

RED JACKETS TO START PRACTICE MONDAY EVENING

"Pete" Fanaritis yesterday afternoon issued the call for all Red Jacket candidates to be present at the initial practice to be held at Beaty Field Monday evening at six o'clock.

All of last year's players who have made plans to play again are expected to be on hand, and any other football players in this vicinity, including Jamestown, Kane, Bradford, Corry, Titusville, etc., which would like a trial are asked to be on hand.

There are lots of berths open yet before the twenty-two man squad which the Jackets plan to carry will be filled. Dr. Reese will coach the club and will choose the players who show the most promise in practice.

No strenuous workouts will begin for four or five days, at least, but it is important that every player desiring to be a candidate for the team be present to every practice when it's called if at all possible.

The Red Jackets mean to be hustlers this season, and with a team that probably won't carry too much weight, must work on a speedy ground attack and capable aerial offense.

Plans now are to the effect that the opening game will be played early in September.

LAST GAME IN CITY SOFTBALL LOOP TONIGHT

The curtain drops on a successful City League softball campaign tonight with the final game in the second half being played between the K. of C. and Recreation Center.

Last night's game between the Elks and St. Joseph's was forfeited by the latter club, but made no difference in the race for the second half championship.

At the present time the Caseys are pacing the way, but a victory tonight for the Recreation Center would put them half a game in front, though then the Caseys could demand a playoff of all contests rained out.

The Caseys and St. Joe's were rained out twice during the last half, the other two clubs, Elks and R. C., only once apiece.

After the second half is cleared up there's still a little debate over the first half. The Recreation Center led all clubs, but a couple of other teams have chances and must play off a postponed game there also. But they will settle one thing at a time, and tonight it decides whether or not the Caseys will claim the second half toga.

TEAMWORK AND SPIRIT IS RECIPE OF PITTSBURGH'S SIZZLING BALL CLUB; RED JACKETS GO TO WORK ON MONDAY

The Bucking Bucs down Pittsburgh way, who only a month a seemed to be sailing a stormy sea in a moth-eaten tub, today ha borrowed one of the government's new destroyers from the "mode design" campaign, and are shelling every club they lay their han on in the National League. It's been a different Pirate crew th season than Pittsburgh fans have laid eyes upon in years. In t first place, they didn't start out in jack rabbit fashion when the sui mer program began, but they stayed back of the pack (first divisio ers), like Whirlaway in a race, until they reached the backstretc and now the Bucs are coming. In the past forty days they've be the hottest club in the National League, and not in recent yea have the Buccaneers had such a sustained drive nor did they sta so early in August, when they're generally at their height. Usua their best ball is played the last half of August, and then they fo up their tents when fall comes breezing along. But with a sizzli crew like Frankie Frisch owns this year, they don't have to wor at this point about being cold when the days grow shorter.

What is responsible for the grand march can't be pointed out naming any individual player. All the Pirates have had a hand the pot and this time they haven't spoiled the broth. But if one pla er should be pointed to as a leading pacer, then we'd nominate Vin DiMaggio, brother of Damaging Joe, stellar performer on the Ame can League's national guard, who's home runs and other needed hi have helped the team win steadily and play .800 ball the last mont Van Robays, Vaughan, Fletcher, Elliott, Stu Martin and Lee Han ley have been rapping steadily also. And then another improveme on the Bucs has been the pitchers. None of them stand out alon but all are winning successively these days, with "Rip" Sewell a Ken Heintzelman in their best form. As stated above, though, no i dividual player is responsible for the Buccos' climb. The way th corner dopes it out, the Bucs are winning because they believe a are proving that fighting spirit is at least 50% of any baseball gam

The Red Jackets go to work Monday in ironing out a few crea in their joints, and limbering up for another gala grid season, whi if present plans go through, may surpass the best season ever know in this community on a football field. With a twenty-two man squ the Jackets should be ready to mix with almost any semi-pro cl you can lay your finger on. With more money in circulation, mo people working, and better living conditions all around, the crow should soar to greater heights along with the team. Last year t Jackets won seven of nine games, losing only to the Akron Awnin and the Buffalo Eldridge Club. The game against the Awnings w played in Akron and it is expected the Jackets will return there f another match this fall. Buffalo should be on the home schedule on more. They're Warren's greatest nemesis and have always been "jinx" club when the Red Jackets have played against them. T boys will start out on Monday evening at six o'clock at Beaty Fiel and grid fans can take their first squints at the early candidates wi report at that time.

Rep. Fish Attacks Measure

(From Page One)

Representative Sabath (D-Ill) deplored attempts by anyone to foment "disunity" in the country and asserted:

"I'm against war; I'm against sending the boys across; that's why I'm in favor of this legislation."

Fish argued that new army officers were being trained in three months and soldiers should be trained in less time.

"The four Roosevelt boys, in defiance of the democratic principles of the draft, became officers without training, but they are exceptions to the rule of no favoritism and no politics in the army," Fish said.

Rep. Halleck (R-Ind), taking cognizance of reports that military officials had information to justify the service extension, asked:

"What is this information that we're not permitted to have? Why aren't we entitled to know the facts? The only people being kept in the dark are the congress and the country.

"Is that because a real case cannot be made?"

The Senate approved the 18-month extension by a 45-to-30 tally late yesterday, providing $10-a-month more pay for service beyond one year, and House leaders promptly ordered an unusual forenoon session today with the determination to get to a vote by Monday at the latest.

Manifesting no misgivings as to how the House vote would go, Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the military committee predicted that the chamber would disregard the Senate's 18-month time limitation.

"I'm getting sick and tired of this question of whether we are going to defend our country for six more months, or 12 more months or 18 more months," May told reporters. "I believe in national defense without any time limit."

The heart of the Senate measure was the provision that would add a maximum of 18 months additional military duty to the present "hitches" of all Selectees, National Guardsmen, Reserves, and regular army enlisted men. All are now subject to only one year's service, except the regulars who sign up for three years.

One House threat was the announced intention of a Republican group, headed by Rep. Short (Mo.), to fight for the complete exemption of Selectees from additional duty, and limit the service extension to regulars, Reservists and Guardsmen.

House leaders, however, exhibited no great worry about the forecasts of the rocky legislative road ahead.

The Senate reached its decision on the legislation after seven days of debate.

Pennsy Freight Made Up in Erie Figures in Crash at Baltimore

Baltimore, Aug. 8—(AP)—One man was killed and the main freight line of the Pennsylvania Railroad between Baltimore and Philadelphia was blocked today by a switching accident in which a locomotive, a tender and seven cars of a 116-car doubleheader ore train were wrecked in the Bay View freight yards.

The dead man was Engineer Frank C. Weimeister, 60, of Baltimore, who was trapped in the cab of the overturned locomotive. Other members of the crew escaped injury.

The accident occurred as the train, made up in Erie, Pa., and bound for the steel mills at Sparrows Point, switched from the main line to the spur. The leading locomotive passed through the switch but the doubleheader coupling broke, air brakes were applied and the second engine failed to negotiate the switch.

the lumber business and farming and resided for some time at Nebraska, on Tionesta creek. In 1898 he removed to Hickory township and purchased a farm on Church Hill, which he yet owned. For some years past he resided in East Hickory with the family of his son, Glen K. Klinestiver. For 27 years until a few years ago he had been collector of taxes for Hickory township and he had served one term as associate judge of Forest county, being elected on the Republican ticket.

Mr. Klinestiver was twice married. His first marriage was with Miss Susan A. Allison, of Nebraska, Jan. 14, 1888, who died July 21, 1903. Of this marriage three sons survive: Merton G., of Warren; Allison E. and Glen K., of East Hickory. His second marriage was on Jan. 1, 1907, with Miss Mattie Foy, of Marienville, who died May 25, 1932. There are two stepsons, Leo Foy, of New York City, and Chester Foy, of Warren.

Surviving also are the following brothers and sisters: H. T. Klinestiver, of Tionesta; Miss Florence E. Klinestiver, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Emma K. Secor, of Sheffield; George H. Klinestiver, of Warren; and F. R. Klinestiver, of Tionesta; also two granddaughters and a grandson, Elanore Klinestiver, of Warren, Ruth Klinestiver, of Philadelphia, and Donald K. Klinestiver, of East Hickory.

Funeral services in his memory will be conducted at his late home at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with Rev. H. Stevenson, of Tidioute, pastor of the Methodist churches at East and West Hickory, officiating. Interment will be made in the family plot in the East Hickory cemetery. Mr. Klinestiver was a member of the Free Methodist church at East Hickory.

BIG PASSENGER LINER DAMAGED BY "ENEMY"

London, Aug. 8—(AP)—The White Star liner Georgic has been damaged by "enemy" action, the Ministry of Information disclosed today.

There were no troops aboard the 27,759-ton passenger liner at the time, the announcemen said, and all crewmen were reported safe except the chief barkeeper.

Neither the time nor the place where the damage occurred was disclosed.

LEADERS SHIFT INDIFFERENTLY

BY VICTOR EUBANK

New York, Aug. 8—(AP)—Specialties accounted for the new feeble rallying flurries in today's stock market while most leaders shifted indifferently over a narrowly irregular route.

Some buying cropped up on the theory a comeback might be in the offing after the nine-session stalemate. The majority of gains that appeared were in minor fractions and declines were plentiful near the final hour. Dealings were relatively sluggish, transfers being at the rate of about 500,000 shares.

HOLD THIRD MAN IN FRAUD CASE AT SHEFFIELD

Sheffield, Aug. 8—A third arrest in connection with the cullet or scrap glass fraud case at the Pennsylvania Bottle Company factory, this place, was made here Wednesday when Harry Nelson, 60, weighmaster for the T. V. Railway, was taken in custody by local Police Chief Sanford Secor.

Nelson was arrested following his return home Wednesday from the Warren General Hospital, where he had been a patient for two days recovering from the effect of an alleged overdose of drugs. He pleaded guilty to a charge of "cheating by fraudulent pretenses" on arraignment before Edwin Anderson, local justice, and was released on $1,000 bond for appearance before the county court.

Previously arrested on the same charge were John W. Hollis, 26, of 3333 Chapin St., Erie, cullet dealer, who has been trucking scrap glass to the local factory for the past few years, and James Suppa, 59, of Sheffield, who until a few days ago was employed in the cullet department at the factory. Both are free on $1,000 bond for appearance before the county court.

Hollis was arrested in Erie on Wednesday, July 30, by Erie police at the request of local Chief Secor. Brought to Sheffield that evening, Hollis was arraigned before Justice Anderson the following day. He entered a plea of not guilty and, unable to post the bond, he was committed to the county jail in Warren overnight. He was bailed out August 1.

Suppa was arrested here last Saturday by Chief Secor. He pleaded guilty on arraignment before Justice Anderson.

A growing shortage in the cullet inventory at the glass plant led to the investigation which resulted in the arrest of the three men. The investigation revealed that through the medium of falsified weigh slips turned in for the glass brought, or purportedly brought to the factory by Hollis the company had paid several thousands of dollars for scrap glass it never received.

Incoming cullet is weighed on the T. V. scales. The Erie trucker contrived to arrive at the scales at the time Hollis was on duty as weighmaster, generally at an early morning hour when few or no persons were about. Suppa, who helped unload the glass at the factory, collaborated in the "scheme" by not reporting the discrepencies between weights of the loads and the weights marked on the slips. Hollis, paid by the company on the basis of the weights marked on the slips allegedly shared the ill-gotten profits with the other two men.

It was revealed that the fraudulent practice has been going on since December, 1939. Until comparatively recently, however, the "overweights" marked on the slips were comparatively small and the shortage in the stock of cullet therefore only recently became noticeably apparent, an official of the firm said.

Announcement and confirmation of the arrests were made and details of the fraud scheme were divulged here Wednesday evening by Chief Secor and William Gallagher, manager of the glass plant, at a conference with representatives of the press.

The charges lodged against each of the three men arrested carries a maximum penalty of $5,000 fine and 5 years imprisonment. The minimum is optional with the court.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

(From Page Ten)

ness all around. . . . Grade-A reports reaching this bureau about Claudio Villar, the Spanish heavy who's knocking 'em dead around Tampa—three straight kayos.

Today's Guest Star

B. M. Atkinson, Louisville Times—"The White Sox aren't going to release Dykes. He's going to escape."

Take-A-Tip Dept.

Don't let all the tub-thumping about Chicago, Detroit, etc., fool you—Louis-Nova is definitely set for little old Noo Yawk between Sept. 15 and 20 . . . but will shift from Yankee Stadium to the Polo Grounds. . . . Ben Jones wasn't too satisfied with Alf Robertson's ride on Whirlaway Wednesday . . . but he'll go along with Alf or Wendell Eads for the Travers next week. . . Mike Jacobs took in the Hambletonian and hit the corn tassel mutuels for a bundle as big as T-H-I-S. . . . From the way the mail is pouring in about it there'll be more "T" in football this fall than in a Chinese restaurant. . . . Even Benny Friedman's going to take a whirl at the Chicago Bears' formation with his little C. C. N. Y. squad.

Just Curious

Will someone please be kind enough,
Come on and tell us just for fun
If those tennis expense accounts
Prove two can live as cheap as one?

Dis-A and Dat-A

Fred Apostoli's comeback is slated to start within a month at Norfolk. . . . Cactus Face Duggan, the line mangler, won't come back to pro football unless he can get time off from his Oklahoma state highway patrol job. . . . Old Bill Klem, the arbitrating man, had to rustle his bones out of retirement to do some fill-in umpiring when Larry Goetz broke his arm. . . . Bill's first job was that Dodger-Giant tussle night before last. . . . And old Jim Braddock is on a Canadian refereeing tour—15 cities.

The Melio Bettina-Tommy Tucker thing is out for Los Angeles. . . And Tom Gallery will concentrate on making Abe Simon vs. Buddy Walker instead. . . . Has anyone noticed how nicely the Oklahoma City Injuns dropped into the Texas League cellar since Rogers Hornsby got the heav-o? . . . Letters keep tipping the eastern boys that Washington will be the big stuff in coast conference footballing.

Hunan province, South China, in enforcing a wartime anti-epidemic project, has established 12 quarantine offices, 15 isolation hospitals, and 100 inoculation centers.

There are 7500 varieties of American apples.

Girls Model New Defense Industry Duds

Fashions flashed on the public at National Wash Apparel Show in Chicago were defense industry uniforms designed by NYA for Illinois. They're for, left to right, aviation ground worker, worn by Ann Sheehan; machine operator, welder, woodshop worker and woodshop employe; might have been borrowed from one of the better beaches. For the models—no silk stockings problem.
